The overall goal of my research for this project is the identification of Disney influences on the formulation of parent-child relationships at an early stage. If these influences can be identified—which I claim they are present in Disney multimedia—then how do the variety of relationships depicted play on the psyche of a child? As the relevance of the topic continues to grow as more forms of media are produced by these filmmakers, my interest in the topic has grown as well due to its fundamentality in the early years of children development. Whether Disney wishes to spread its views to its audience, or creates thought-provoking plots purely for entertainment, the effects of this rhetoric are apparent and widespread throughout all styles of Disney. Although the broad scope of my research centers on the depiction of parent-child relationships, the body of my writing will categorize the different types demonstrated through the use of examples from both early and modern Disney movies.

Wooden—professors at Missouri State University, wrote this article to offer a unique outlook on the argument of Disney's "teachings" and the reason behind their thought process. The key question asked in this work is as follows: Does the feminizing of male also-rans (and the simultaneous
