Question 1

Know the difference between saving and borrowing money

Saving money is putting money you own into an account at a financial institution with the intention of earning interest and using that money at a later time in life. Typically investments, such as college & retirement.

Borrowing money is taking money (you will then owe) from a financial institution with the intention of paying it back along with paying interest for something that you originally would not be able to afford upfront, but need now in life. Typically a house & a car.

Question 2

Know that some terms you see will be the same word, but have a different meaning depending on if you're saving or borrowing money

Term	Saving or Investing	Borrowing
Principal (P)	The original dollar amount you deposit (put money into) in an account.	The original dollar amount you take out a loan for. The amount goes down as you pay it back.
Interest (I)	The dollar amount you earn on a savings account or investment. The higher the principal, the more you earn.	The dollar amount you pay as the cost (fee) to borrow money. The higher the principal, the more interest you pay.
Rate (R)	The amount of interest expressed as a percentage. The higher the rate, generally the more interest you will earn.	The amount of interest expressed as a percentage. The higher the rate, generally the more interest you will pay.
Time (t)	The length in years you have the deposit in an account. The longer the time, generally the more interest you will earn.	The length in years you have to pay the loan back. The longer the time, generally the more interest you will pay.

Question 3

Know the difference between simple interest and compound interest

The following charts have an initial deposit of $1,000.00 at the beginning of the year and a interest rate of 5.5%.

Year	Interest Earned	Ending Balance for Year
1	$55.00	$1,055.00
2	$58.00	$1,113.00
3	$60.00	$1,173.00

Simple interest are numbers that are constant all year without principal amount.

The interest earned staying the same each year is a good indication that the interest is simpler.

Year	Interest Earned	Ending Balance for Year
1	$55.00	$1,055.00
2	$58.00	$1,113.00
3	$61.00	$1,174.00

Compound interest are numbers that are constant and on the original principal plus accumulated interest (i.e., the accumulated interest becomes part of the principal (P+I), interest on interest).

The interest earned changing each year is a good indication that the interest is compound.

Note: Just because "compound" interest increases as time goes by doesn't always mean it's the better option.
