Corn Prices in the Chicago Board of Trade Futures Market, period 2000-2016 Erika del Carmen González Huacuz, Jorge Víctor Alcaraz Vera, Rubén Chávez Rivera, 2025-04-09 This work outlines an analysis of the relationship between real prices of real production and prices resulting from speculation in the period 2000-2016. The specific agricultural commodity selected to carry out this study is Mexican yellow corn whose prices are analyzed based on the spot market on the real or physical goods market and on the results of speculation within the Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT) of the CME Group located in the United States of America. To achieve the above, a linear regression analysis using the ordinary least squares (OLS) method and time series data has been applied. We consider that this tool is the most appropriate to test the hypothesis planted based on currently available data. Among the main findings of the analysis is that the growing speculation in agricultural commodity markets in this case Mexican yellow corn brings with it a series of structural problems in the Mexican agricultural sector such as the agrifood crisis, the lack of food sovereignty and a highly speculative pricing process coming from abroad. In this sense, this work shows evidence of the need to put forward proposals in terms of public policy whose axis is DOI <https://doi.org/10.52501/cc.050>

Tartessos and the Phoenicians in Iberia Sebastián Celestino Pérez, Carolina López-Ruiz, 2016 This is the first book in English about the earliest historical civilization in the western Mediterranean known as Tartessos. Endowed with extraordinary wealth in metals and strategically positioned between the Atlantic and Mediterranean trading routes at the time of Greek and Phoenician colonial expansion, Tartessos flourished in the eighth and seventh centuries BCE. Tartessos became a literate, sophisticated urban culture in southwestern Iberia (today's Spain and Portugal) enriched by commercial contacts with the Aegean and the Levant since at least the ninth century. In its material culture (architecture, grave goods, sanctuaries, plastic arts), we see how native elements combined with imported, orientalizing innovations introduced by the Phoenicians. Historians of the rank of Herodotus and Livy, geographers such as Strabo and Pliny, Greek and Punic periplois and perhaps even Phoenician and Hebrew texts testify to the power, wealth and prominence of this westernmost Mediterranean civilization. Archaeologists in turn have demonstrated the existence of a fascinating complex society with both strong local roots and international flare. Yet for still mysterious reasons, Tartessos did not attain a Classical period like its peer emerging cultures did at the same time: Etruscans, Romans, Greeks. This book combines the expertise of its two authors in archaeology, philology and cultural history to present a comprehensive, coherent, theoretically up-to-date and informative overview of the discovery sources and debates surrounding this puzzling culture of ancient Iberia and its complex hybrid identity vis-à-vis the western Phoenicians. This book will be of great interest to students of the classics, archaeology and ancient history, Phoenician, Punic studies, colonization and cultural contact.
