Biophilosophy Rolf Sattler, 2012-12-06 This book is an introduction to biophilosophy written primarily for the student of biology the practicing biologist and the educated layperson It does not presuppose technical knowledge in biology or philosophy However it requires a willingness to examine the most basic foundations of biology which are so often taken for granted Furthermore it points to the bottomlessness of these foundations the mystery of life the Unnamable I have tried to further the awareness that biological statements are based on philosophical assumptions which are present in our minds even before we enter the laboratory These assumptions which often harbor strong commitments are exposed throughout the book I have tried to show how they influence concrete biological research as well as our personal existence and society Thus emphasis is placed on the connection between biophilosophy and biological research on the one hand and biophilosophy and the human condition on the other

An Outline of Russian Literature Maurice Baring, 2006 Russian literature begins with the nineteenth century that is to say with the reign of Alexander I It was then that the literary fruits on which Russia has since fed were born The seeds were sown of course centuries earlier but the history of Russian literature up to the nineteenth century is not a history of literature it is the history of Russia It may well be objected that it is difficult to separate Russian literature from Russian history that for the understanding of Russian literature an understanding of Russian history is indispensable This is probably true but in a sketch of this dimension it would be quite impossible to give even an adequate outline of all the vicissitudes in the life of the Russian people which have helped and hindered blighted and fostered the growth of the Russian tree of letters All that one can do is to mention some of the chief landmarks amongst the events which directly affected the growth of Russian literature until the dawn of that epoch when its fruits became palpable to Russia and to the world This book has been completely retyped and indexed from the 1914 version with the same title Relationship Matters Czesław Kiński, 2024-06-17 The volume begins by outlining the development of the teacher-student relationship according to the main psychological theories Next it points to the inseparability of cognitive and emotional factors in the learning process By referring to the major positive psychology theories i.e. Broaden and Build Flow and PERMA the book lays the foundation for studying the full spectrum of learner emotions experienced while learning a foreign language Finally it provides a research-based analysis of teacher-related variables that affect learner classroom well-being and ill-being Cyclopædia of English Literature
