Success at a Price Lisa C. Huebner, Samantha Jeune, Odette Kolenky, 2025-07-01 What invisible barriers do Black and other self identifying women of color students face while thriving on a college campus that excludes them How do these experiences challenge and transform meanings of diversity equity and inclusion especially as they relate to student success In this three year ethnographic study of women of color undergraduate students Lisa C Huebner Samantha Jeune and Odette Kolenky found that while thriving women of color students suffered what they describe as a daily normal of harassment and erasure At the same time however they excelled often graduating with many academic and cocurricular achievements Celebrated by the university as successful students but also ignored by it they felt alone deceived and exploited by the very university system that was dedicated to helping them This book offers a rare glimpse into the successes we take for granted Centering the voices of women of color students this book offers a new story of how successful women of color overcome barriers no one else seems to see and through their experiences and insights offers recommendations to all of us who care about diversity equity and inclusion      Theorizing Cultural Work Mark Banks,Rosalind Gill,Stephanie Taylor,2014-04-11

In recent years cultural work has engaged the interest of scholars from a broad range of social science and humanities disciplines The debate in this turn to cultural work has largely been based around evaluating its advantages and disadvantages its freedoms and its constraints its informal but precarious nature the inequalities within its global workforce and the blurring of work life boundaries leading to self exploitation While academic critics have persuasively challenged more optimistic accounts of converged worlds of creative production the critical debate on cultural work has itself leant heavily towards suggesting a profoundly new confluence of forces and effects Theorizing Cultural Work instead views cultural work through a specifically historicized and temporal lens to ask what novelty can we actually attach to current conditions and precisely what relation does cultural work have to social precedent The contributors to this volume also explore current transformations and future s of work within the cultural and creative industries as they move into an uncertain future This book challenges more affirmative and proselytising industry and academic perspectives and the pervasive cult of novelty that surrounds them to locate cultural work as an historically and geographically situated process It will be of interest to students and scholars of sociology cultural studies human geography urban studies and industrial relations as well as management and business studies cultural and economic policy and development government and planning      Intergenerational Christian Formation Holly Catterton Allen,Christine Lawton,Cory L.
