

G possessive adjectives: my, your, etc.
V personal information: address, phone number, etc.
P the alphabet, fact and fact

His name, her name

Lesson plan

The topic of where SS go to study English abroad and an interview in a Dublin language school provide the context for SS to revise countries, learn how to give personal information, and practise the alphabet. The grammar focus here is possessive adjectives and the different elements of the lesson are brought together in the final activity, where SS identify famous actors who have unusual names.

Optional lead-in (books closed)

- Put SS in pairs. Give them two minutes to write down five countries where the first language is English.
- Feedback the countries onto the board. Ask them what the nationality is for each country, and where the stress is on both words.

(Possible answers)

Britain	British
Scotland	Scottish
Ireland	Irish
the USA	American
Canada	Canadian
Australia	Australian

I LISTENING

- Write these numbers on the board: 40,000, 80,000, 120,000, 500,000, 600,000 and elicit/teach the pronunciation.
- Books open. Focus on the five countries, and tell SS that they are all countries where people go to study English. Go through the introductory sentence (Every year...) with them, and then get them in pairs to guess the missing numbers.
- Check answers, getting SS to say the whole sentence to practise the high numbers, e.g. Six hundred thousand people study English in .... You could teach them We think... to preface their answers.

600,000	Britain
500,000	Ireland
120,000	the USA
80,000	Australia
40,000	Canada

- Ask some individual SS where they would like to go to study English.

b LISTENING

- Focus on the picture of the language student and on the map and elicit the country where he is going (Ireland).
- Now focus on the language school enrolment form. Explain (in SS' LI if necessary) that Mario is a new student at a language school in Dublin. Tell SS that they are going to listen to him being interviewed by the school secretary, and must complete the form with his information.

- Go through the different headings on the form and make sure SS understand them. (They may not know age and postcode).
- Play the tape/CD once the whole way through. Then play it again, pausing from time to time to give SS time to write.

Extra support

This is the first quite long listening that SS have had. Reassure them by telling them just to relax and listen the first time, without trying to complete the form, but just trying to follow the conversation. Ask Where are they? Who's speaking? Two men, a woman and a man, or two women? (A woman and a man.) Then tell them to try to complete some of the form, and play the tape/CD as many times as you think they need, pausing where necessary, e.g. after the phone numbers. They could also listen again at the end with the tapescript on p. 114.

- Give SS time to compare their answers in pairs, and then check answers.
