

Keep your notes in the cloud

If you're brand-new to OneNote, you'll be asked to connect to the cloud, where OneNote will create your first notebook. You can use your Microsoft account (for example, MSN, Hotmail, or Messenger) to use with OneNote. If you don't already have an account, you can create one for free.

Keeping your notebooks in the cloud means you can access them from just about anywhere, such as any other computers you use, your phone, a tablet, or even a Web browser.

What happened to the Share tab?

If you're upgrading to OneNote 2013 from an older version, you probably have at least one notebook stored on your computer. You can easily move these notes online so you can access them from anywhere. Click File > Share to begin.

OneDrive is the best and easiest option for your personal notes. If you're working in an organization that uses SharePoint to collaborate online, you can click the Add a Place button on this screen to set up your existing SharePoint account.

Any OneNote notebooks that you store online are kept private unless you give other people permission to view the folders in which your notebooks are stored.
