the wife and mother of presidents Barbara Bush's prominent place in American history is matched only by her extraordinary popularity. Republicans and Democrats alike appreciate her wit, her compassion, and her devotion to her family. Dignified, loyal, and unpretentious, the former First Lady defied skeptics to become one of the most admired first ladies in history, and she remains a beloved public figure today. In this inspiring follow-up to her number one bestselling memoir, Mrs. Bush covers the momentous eight years between President George H. W. Bush's leaving office and President George W. Bush's 2001 inauguration. Reflections comprises Mrs. Bush's diary entries, travelogues, family photographs, even secret recipes. She discusses her experiences in the White House, on the campaign trail, and in the public eye, as well as her own views about such controversial issues as her husband's resignation from the NRA, the caning of an American student in Singapore, and in her candid epilogue, her family's reactions to September 11, 2001. Throughout, the extraordinary amount of love and pride Mrs. Bush feels for her husband, five children, and fourteen grandchildren is always clear. Reflections will delight Barbara Bush's millions of admirers with her touching anecdotes and personal revelations from the past decade of a full and fascinating life.

Dating from the 1970s, the first generation of reflection focused on identifying and describing internal cognitive processes assumed to be part of composing. The second generation, operating in both classroom and assessment scenes in the 1990s, developed mechanisms for externalizing reflection, making it visible and thus explicitly available to help writers. Now a third generation of work in reflection is emerging. As mapped by the contributors to A Rhetoric of Reflection, this iteration of research and practice is taking up new questions in new sites of activity and with new theories. It comprises attention to transfer of writing knowledge and practice, teaching and assessment, portfolios, linguistic and cultural difference, and various media, including print and digital. It conceptualizes conversation as a primary reflective medium, both inside and outside the classroom, and for individuals and collectives, and articulates the role that different genres play in hosting reflection. Perhaps most important in the work of this third generation is the identification and increasing appreciation of the epistemic value of reflection of its ability to help make new meanings and of its rhetorical power for both scholars and students Contributors Anne Beaufort Kara Taczak Liane Robertson Michael Neal Heather Ostman Cathy Leaker Bruce Horner Asao B Inoue Tyler Richmond J Elizabeth Clark Naomi Silver Christina Russell McDonald Pamela Flash Kevin Roozen Jeff Sommers Doug Hesse Software Engineering for Self-Adaptive Systems Betty H. C. Cheng, Rogério de Lemos, Paola Inverardi, Jeff Magee, 2009-06-10 Although the self adaptability of systems has been studied in a wide range of disciplines from biology to robotics only recently has the software engineering community recognized its key role in enabling the development of future software systems that are able to self adapt to changes that may occur in the system its requirements or the environment in which it is deployed The 12 carefully reviewed papers included in this state of the art survey originate from the International Seminar on Software Engineering for Self Adaptive Systems held in Dagstuhl Castle Germany in January 2008 They examine the current state of the art in the field describing a wide range of approaches coming from different strands of software engineering and present future challenges facing this ever resurgent and challenging field of research Also included in this book is an invited roadmap paper on the research challenges facing self adaptive systems within the area of software engineering based on discussions at the Dagstuhl Seminar and put together by several of its participants The papers have been divided into topical sections on architecture based self adaptation context aware and model driven self adaptation and self healing These are preceded by three research roadmap papers

Nikulin,Igor R. Shafarevich,2012-12-06 This book is devoted to the theory of geometries which are locally Euclidean in the sense that in small regions they are identical to the geometry of the Euclidean plane or Euclidean 3 space Starting from the simplest examples we proceed to develop a general theory of such geometries based on their relation with discrete groups of motions of the Euclidean plane or 3 space we also consider the relation between discrete groups of motions and crystallography The description of locally Euclidean geometries of one type shows that these geometries are themselves naturally represented as the points of a new geometry The systematic study of this new geometry leads us to 2 dimensional Lobachevsky geometry also called non Euclidean or hyperbolic geometry which following the logic of our study is constructed starting from the properties of its group of motions Thus in this book we would like to introduce the reader to a theory of geometries which are different from the usual Euclidean geometry of the plane and 3 space in terms of examples which are accessible to a concrete and intuitive study The basic method of study is the use of groups of motions both discrete groups and the groups of motions of geometries The book does not presuppose on the part of the reader any preliminary knowledge outside the limits of a school geometry course
