The species area relationship (SAR) describes a range of related phenomena that are fundamental to the study of biogeography, macroecology and community ecology. While the subject of ongoing debate for a century, surprisingly no previous book has focused specifically on the SAR. This volume addresses this shortfall by providing a synthesis of the development of SAR typologies and theory as well as empirical research and application to biodiversity conservation problems. It also includes a compilation of recent advances in SAR research comprising novel SAR related theories and findings from the leading authors in the field. The chapters feature specific knowledge relating to terrestrial, marine and freshwater realms ensuring a comprehensive volume relevant to a wide range of fields with a mix of review and novel material and with clear recommendations for further research and application.
