It is written in a conversational style because I have no standing in the worlds of science or theology which require the use of specific writing formats. This is by choice. The reasons are made explicit in the text and may surprise readers. I began my search for answers as a young boy on behalf of my father. Now I am an old man. It was a steep learning curve. What I have discovered is that first of all, from the largest to the smallest scale of existence, there are just three things: Space, Energy, and Quantity. Within each of these three components are fundamental concepts: Space: Boundary, Force; Energy: Wave, Motion; and Quantity: Number. These three concepts within the components of existence are interlocked and continuously interacting across both physical and metaphysical existence according to the Laws of Change. The change of quantity into quality and
