research where notions of knowledge connectivity and community<sup>1</sup> become increasingly elastic and engagements slide across material and virtual domains in new practices whose emergence is increasingly difficult to apprehend p Tara Fenwick University of Stirling The chapters in this volume explore new and innovative ways of thinking about the nature of networked learning and its pedagogical values and beliefs They pose a challenge to us to reflect on what we thought networked learning was 15 year ago where it is today and where it is likely to be headed Each chapter brings a particular perspective to the themes of design experience and practice of networked learning the chosen focus of the book The chapters in the book embrace a wide field of educational areas including those of higher education informal learning work based learning continuing professional development academic staff development and management learning The Design Experience and Practice of Networked Learning will prove indispensable reading for researchers teachers consultants and instructional designers in higher and continuing education for those involved in staff and educational development and for those studying post graduate qualifications in learning and teaching This the second volume in the Springer Book Series on Researching Networked Learning is based on a selection of papers presented at the 2012 Networked Learning Conference held in Maastricht The Netherlands
