George Orwell's paranoid vision of 1984 is here. Only it isn't Big Brother who is watching us. It's Big Data. Here's the deal: Google, Apple, and Microsoft are all attempting to do the same thing. They are trying to get your device to learn enough about you so it can anticipate what you want to do next and provide the appropriate information just as you need it. Rafe Needleman described it best in an article he authored for Yahoo Tech. He said artificial intelligence will be somewhat like auto correct. Your smartphone will auto suggest what you should do next based on your history. To do that, your smartphone would draw on your prior browsing history and what it knows about you from your GPS location services, your text messages, and your emails. The hard part is getting your phone to think contextually. As human beings, we can put things in context based on what's happening now. For example, let's say you are sitting in your house. You smell something burning and see smoke coming from the kitchen. The next thing you know, the smoke alarm goes off. Most people can put two and two together to determine something is wrong. They understand that maybe the house is on fire. A normal person is either going to check it out or dial 911 and run out of the house screaming fire. Here's a tougher one. Let's say you have an appointment set to replace your windshield at 9:15. The Glass Barn texts you to say they are running an hour behind schedule. Is that okay? Or would you like to reschedule? That text is buried among several other messages. Most of them are junk. A coupon for a dollar off a sandwich, free drinks at the bar down the street, and a contest entry. Which messages should your phone hide or display? Most people would say the message from the Glass Barn should be displayed first because it's more urgent. But how do you teach a chunk of metal and memory chips to make that decision? That's the real challenge. When contextual intelligence works, it's amazing. The problem is that right now, your phone gets it right less than a third of the time. Google is working hard to improve on that number. Their future depends on getting it right. Time Magazine ran an article by Victor Lukerson a while back titled "Google Searches for Its Future." The premise was it's a whole new world out there. Google became the go-to search engine because of their excellence in desktop search, but mobile has changed everything. If Google wants to survive, they need to reinvent themselves. The future is mobile, and Google has determined the only way they can survive in this new reality is to focus on voice search and Google Now. Want to know more? Buy the book Lean why cellular is the future of everything by Alan Dix, Steve Gill, Devina Ramduny-Ellis, and Jo Hare, 2022-08-11. TouchIT brings together insights from human-computer interaction and industrial design, exploring these themes under four main headings: human body and mind, objects and things, space and information, and computation.

Gaurav Garg, 2025-08-26 He lost a kingdom at fifteen He would burn the world to get it back For the young Prince Harald Sigurdsson the bloody mud of Stiklestad was not an end but a brutal beginning Exiled wounded and hunted after the death of his brother King Olaf he is stripped of his home his title and his honor With nothing but his royal blood and a heart filled with a cold simmering rage he walks the ghost s road east to the court of Kievan Rus and then south to the glittering treacherous heart of the known world Constantinople In the service of the Byzantine Emperor he finds his true calling He enlists in the elite Varangian Guard and through years of relentless medieval warfare he forges a new identity On the pirate coasts of the Mediterranean the sun scorched plains of Asia Minor and the blood soaked hills of Bulgaria he becomes a legend the Bulgar Burner the Thunderbolt of the North a commander whose tactical genius is matched only by his unflinching cruelty He learns the language of power not in councils but in sieges not in treaties but in terror Amassing a king s ransom in gold he is ready to return home But the Norway he returns to is not the one he left The throne is occupied by his own nephew the pious

Magnus the Good Through a campaign of fear and a pragmatic cold blooded betrayal Harald seizes a share of the crown his ambition finally tasting the power it has craved When Magnus dies leaving Harald as the sole undisputed king his gaze turns to the ultimate prize In the year 1066 with the English throne suddenly vacant he sees his destiny Forging an unholy alliance with the exiled brother of the new English king he assembles the greatest Viking invasion fleet of the age to claim the richest kingdom in the north This is his final epic gamble This is the story of the last great Viking king a true and brutal Viking saga of an antihero s relentless rise and his final catastrophic fall at the fateful Battle of Stamford Bridge the bloody day that forever marked the end of an era

Mobile Tech Report 2015 John R. Roberts,2015-02-23 If you read technology news you ll notice it s not just a story of amazing new product introductions or even that plus copycat product introductions All the usual aspects of business are there fierce competition new contenders old survivors great ideas but business failures mediocre ideas that somehow seem to succeed and prosper As a reporter commentator and blogger on mobile technology I ve collected what happened in the industry in 2014 and make predictions on what will and won t happen in 2015 You can read what did happen in the mobile technology in 2014 Often I deliver a comment with the news item and usually there is a link to the web page of the original announcement This way you can dive into any detail level you desire read my news feed for the overview or follow the related web link to the longer article History is moving so fast now that it is all recorded electronically but I m surprised no one else has collected it and presented it for consideration Here is 2013 from the mobile technology industry for your consideration along with my own observations and opinions about where things are headed It s often overlooked that the technology industry is an industry By that I mean its main concerns are profit and growth As consumers we love the new products and unique abilities we are gaining from technology but it is a business akin to any other trying to seduce us to pry money out of our wallets So I cover the horse race aspect of the business who s up who s down Is that changing Is that likely to change The longer implications of what the technology industry is doing are vast and social We are moving to an always on always connected society where we can communicate with someone instantly and find an answer to any question quickly The entire database of human knowledge is now available in the palm of your hand whenever you desire it Everything is there the good the bad right and wrong hate and love music and noise We are obsessed with technology not in and of itself but as a means to an end Technology is the means to satisfy our curiosity or even our desire for self expression We are taking photos machine gun style with our smartphones and choose the few to share As humans we are gathering ever more data about ourselves and sharing more about ourselves than we probably thought possible Bill Gates was once asked why the computer industry had generated so much improvement in its products over a relatively few years He gave some boring answer about Moore s Law but the real answer is that computers are in their teenage years They are growing and growing They will not always do so So too the technology industry is in a state of rapid change I see the shift to smaller devices as a new paradigm smashing some businesses and growing others into giants Their stories are here in the news In short here are predictions for what won t and will happen in 2015 for the mobile technology industry breakdowns of marketshare figures on the horse race aspect of the business chapters on Apple Samsung Google Microsoft Nokia Blackberry Amazon Yahoo news about social media giants Facebook Twitter Google LinkedIn Foursquare SnapChat and the carriers themselves Verizon AT T Sprint andT Mobile You can also review my 2014 mobile predictions and see my track record on predictions Finally there are some essays on how all this mobile tech is figuring into our lives I ve divided the news into the subjects it covers but also put in the appendix all the news as it came out in chronological ordering You can read the firehose of events in the appendix or just read about one topic at a time in the earlier chapters
