Threshold Concepts Within the Disciplines Ray Land, Jan Meyer, Jan Smith, 2008 Threshold Concepts within the Disciplines brings together leading writers from various disciplines and national contexts in an important and readable volume for all those concerned with teaching and learning in higher education The foundational principle of threshold concepts is that there are in each discipline conceptual gateways or portals that must be negotiated to arrive at important new understandings In crossing the portal transformation occurs both in knowledge and subjectivity Such transformation involves troublesome knowledge a key concern for contributors to this book who identify threshold concepts in their own fields and suggest how to deal with them Part One extends and enhances the threshold concept framework containing chapters that articulate its qualities its links to other social theories of learning and other traditions in educational research Part Two encompasses the disciplinary heart of the book with contributions from a diversity of areas including computing engineering biology design modern languages education and economics In the many empirical case studies educators show how they have used the threshold concept framework to inform and evaluate their teaching contexts Other chapters emphasise the equally important being and becoming dimension of learning Part Three suggests pedagogic directions for those at the centre of the education project with contributions focusing on the socialisation of academics and their continuing quest to be effective teachers The book will be of interest to disciplinary teachers educational researchers and educational developers It also is of relevance to issues in quality assurance and professional accreditation

Educational Tests and Measurements Walter Scott Monroe,James Clarence De Voss,Frederick James Kelly,1924

Social Dominance Jim Sidanius,Felicia Pratto,2001-02-12 This volume focuses on two questions why do people from one social group oppress and discriminate against people from other groups and why is this oppression so mind numbingly difficult to eliminate The answers to these questions are framed using the conceptual framework of social dominance theory Social dominance theory argues that the major forms of intergroup conflict such as racism classism and patriarchy are all basically derived from the basic human predisposition to form and maintain hierarchical and group based systems of social organization In essence social dominance theory presumes that beneath major and sometimes profound difference between different human societies there is also a basic grammar of social power shared by all societies in common We use social dominance theory in an attempt to identify the elements of this grammar and to understand how these elements interact and reinforce each other to produce and maintain group based social hierarchy
