examines the factors that affect the pace of this proliferation such as regional power structures and geographical proximity and challenges many prevailing theories on proliferation This compelling text convincingly argues that simple conflict relationships are not sufficient for countries to go nuclear thus providing insight into the true complexity of the issue Explaining the similarities and differences between the nuclear policies of states in protracted conflict regions the book commands the attention of anyone interested in nuclear proliferation and regional conflict Searching for Non-Western Roots of Conflict Resolution: Discourses, Norms and Case Studies ,2013-03-15 Conflict resolution as a defined field of study has been facing stiff challenges in the post Cold War world The multipolar setting of the globalised world with rising incidence of intra state conflicts and growing convergence between security and development issues have generated fresh as well as severely mutated old challenges which most often do not fit well within traditional theoretical explanatory categories evolved within Peace and Conflict Studies This disjunction is often generated by the fact that the modern conflict zones are mostly located in the developing and underdeveloped parts of the global South whereas the discourses of Conflict resolution continue to be largely western in origin and focus Dissatisfaction with this process led to the search for alternative values in non western discourses either philosophical such as Buddhism or Gandhian methodology of peaceful satyagraha Attempts made by Peace and Conflict resolution theorists to borrow and integrate non western concepts within the paradigm however important are but small steps which indicate the growing complexities associated with the process as well as academic analyses and discussions related to conflict resolution More micro level studies of attempts towards conflict resolution from primarily non western conflict zones as well as alternative theorisations about non western norms if any and discourses would be necessary to ascertain whether a non western alternative paradigm for conflict resolution is possible desirable and whether it could be integrated and absorbed successfully within the already established theoretical models of conflict The present edited volume represents some of these viewpoints It includes nine essays which try to look into the process of conflict resolution from various angles the primary aim being to discover whether it could be done through non western prism and would be of interest to both practitioners and academics and ofcourse students Review of International Affairs ,2005 Power and Governance in a Partially Globalized World Robert Keohane,2003-09-02 As one of the most innovative and influential thinkers in international relations for more than three decades Robert O Keohane s groundbreaking work in institutional theory has redefined our understanding of international political economy Consisting of a selection of his most recent essays this absorbing book address such core issues as interdependence institutions the development of international law globalization and global governance The essays are placed in historical and intellectual context by a substantial new introduction outlining the developments in Keohane s thought and in an original afterword the author offers a challenging interpretation of the September 11th attacks and their aftermath Undoubtedly this book is essential reading for anyone with an interest in international relations The Making of International Trade Policy Hannah Murphy,2010-01-01
