Colour and Light in the Ocean Victor Martinez-Vicente, Astrid Bracher, Didier Ramon, Shubha Sathyendranath, Tiit Kutser, 2020-03-26 CLEO publications in Frontiers in Marine Science Foreword Josef Aschbacher Director of ESA's Earth Observation Programmes Satellite data have drastically changed the view we have of the oceans Covering about 70% of Earth's surface oceans play a unique role for our planet and for our life but large areas remain unexplored and are difficult to reach Since the 1980s Earth orbiting satellites have helped to observe what is happening at the ocean surface Sensors like CZCS AVHRR SeaWiFS and MODIS provided the first ocean colour data

from space Starting in 2002 ESA's Medium Resolution Imaging Spectrometer MERIS on board the environmental satellite Envisat provided detailed information on phytoplankton biomass and concentrations of other matter in the global oceans These satellite observations laid the groundwork for studying the marine environment and how it responds to climate change and the research community has since delivered information on the variability of marine ecosystems Part of this work is reflected in this stunning collection of peer reviewed publications presented at the workshop Colour and Light in the Ocean from Earth Observation CLEO held at ESA's ESRIN site in Frascati Italy on 6-8 September 2016 The event attracted more than 160 participants from all over the world including remote sensing experts marine ecosystem modelers in situ observers and users of Earth observation data Scientifically the meeting covered applications in climate studies over primary productivity and ocean dynamics to pools of carbon and phytoplankton diversity at global and regional scales It also demonstrated the potential of Earth observation and its contribution to modern oceanography Looking to the future new satellites developed by ESA under the coordination of the European Commission will further our scientific and operational observations of the seas With Sentinel 3A in orbit and its twin Sentinel 3B following in 2017 there is a new category of data available for operational oceanographic applications and climate studies for years to come These data are free and easy to access by anyone interested Looking at the role of oceans in our daily lives I am sure that this collection of scientific excellence will be valued by scientists of today and will inspire the next generation to carry these ideas into the future

Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports ,1992 Global Ecology and Oceanography of Harmful Algal Blooms Patricia M. Glibert,Elisa Berdalet,Michele A. Burford,Grant C. Pitcher,Mingjiang Zhou,2018-04-26 Harmful algal blooms HABs blooms that cause fish kills contaminate seafood with toxins or cause human or ecological health impacts and harm to local economies are occurring more often in more places and lasting longer than in past decades This expansion is primarily the result of human activities through increased nutrient inputs and various aspects of climate change The Global Ecology and Oceanography of Harmful Algal Blooms GEOHAB programme promoted international collaboration to understand HAB population dynamics in various oceanographic regimes and to improve the prediction of HABs This volume introduces readers to the overarching framework of the GEOHAB programme factors contributing to the global expansion of harmful algal blooms the complexities of HABs in different habitats and the forward looking issues to be tackled by the next generation of GEOHAB GlobalHAB The programme brought together an international team of contributing scientists and ecosystem managers and its outcomes will greatly benefit the international research community Mathematical Modeling of Inland Vessel Maneuverability Considering Rudder Hydrodynamics Jialun Liu,2020-05-11 This book demonstrates that different rudder configurations have different hydrodynamic characteristics which are influenced by the profile the parameters and the specific configuration The author proposes new regression formulas to help naval architects quickly estimate the rudder induced forces and moments in maneuvering Furthermore the author proposes and validates an integrated maneuvering model for both seagoing ships and inland vessels Using the proposed regression formulas and maneuvering model the specific impacts of rudder configurations on inland vessel maneuverability are studied In turn the book demonstrates the application of Reynolds Averaged Navier Stokes RANS simulations to obtain rudder hydrodynamic characteristics and the integration of the RANS results into maneuvering models as an accurate estimation of rudder forces and moments needed to quantify the impacts of rudder configurations on ships maneuvering performance In addition the author proposes new criteria for the prediction and evaluation of inland vessel maneuverability Simulations of ships with various rudder configurations are presented in order to analyze the impacts of rudder configurations on ship maneuverability in different classic and proposed test maneuvers Offering essential guidance on the effects of rudders for inland vessel maneuverability and helping practical engineers make informed design choices the book is of interest to researchers and academics in the field of naval engineering as well as students of naval architecture Industrial practitioners working on ship design may also find it beneficial
