

these points. This paper will describe how adolescents develop from childhood to adulthood considering their physical, emotional, social, moral, and intellectual development, and how the schooling system either co-education or single sex education help them develop the necessary skills to be successful in life.

Literature Review

Physical Characteristics:

These characteristics refer to certain physical developmental features associated with human growth. This transitional period from childhood to adulthood leaves behind life marking changes that make the adolescents see life differently. For instance, the rapid and uneven body development determines enhanced gross and fine motor skills and biological maturity. In addition, several authors state that both sexes experiment growth spurts, however they occur earlier in girls than in boys (Brown, D., & Knowles, T., 2007; Caskey, M., & Anfara, V., 2007). Such characteristics like accelerated growing of bones compared to muscle changes makes teenagers sometimes be uncoordinated and clumsy. In fact, the adolescents' developmental growth also includes significant increases in height, weight, and internal organ sizes as well as changes in skeletal and muscular systems. This rapid growth could give teenagers a feeling of discomfort and pain due to body development (Caskey, M., & Anfara, V., 2007). There is an increase in the nutritional needs and lethargy due to the hormonal work. Alternatively, adolescents need 9 hours and 15 minutes of sleep every day (Brown, D., & Knowles, T., 2007). Furthermore, both sexes begin to develop secondary sexual features. Girls begin menstruation, their breasts grow and hips enlarge. In the case of boys, they begin to show facial hair and men voices deepen. Their body odor becomes more pronounced that is why these characteristics can

Pellegrini, 2000 Resources in Education ,1997 Research in Education ,1973 Current Index to Journals in Education ,2001 Success for All Yanyu Zhou, 2008-11-01 This book provides a detailed account of an educational experiment in a middle school in Shanghai China The school called Zhabei No 8 Middle School hereafter No 8 School is located in a run down lower working class district Since the mid 1980s the school has experimented on an educational reform program called success education aiming to help those at risk students to be successful in school This book illustrates how this educational experiment has been carried out and to identify experiences that could be learned by the international educational community The book analyzes the critical role played by Principal Liu Jinghai and particular attention is paid to the strategies adopted by the school to help enhance students self esteem through integrating love and care throughout the school's curriculum and activities. The pivotal roles played by teachers called class directors are meticulously studied and efforts the school has made to collaborate with parents and the local community are examined. An ethnographic approach was used to gather data in this study. A combination of interviews, participant observation and document analysis was applied to arrive at a systematic and complex understanding of this educational endeavor in China.

Instructional Design: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools and Applications Management Association, Information Resources, 2011-03-31. Successful educational programs are often the result of pragmatic design and development methodologies that take into account all aspects of the educational and instructional experience. Instructional Design: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools and Applications presents a complete overview of historical perspectives, new methods and applications, and models in instructional design research and development. This three-volume work covers all fundamental strategies and theories and encourages continued research in strengthening the consistent design and reliable results of educational programs and models.

School Library Media Activities Monthly, 1998. Making Middle Schools Work Jon Wiles, Joseph Bondi, 1986. Over the past 20 years the middle school has been a major innovative movement changing the face of intermediate education. While hard to define exactly, middle schools have different priorities and purposes than junior high schools. The former serve preadolescents ages 10 to 14 through a balanced comprehensive program. Middle school programs need clear definition and constant reevaluation to monitor program effectiveness and prevent slippage. Success depends heavily on sound curriculum development and management. This report describes the Wiles-Bondi Curriculum Management Plan (CMP) which draws from the work of Tyler and Taba and the widely used accreditation process format. The CMP introduces regularity into the change process by superimposing a management schemata over the curriculum development framework and forcing values clarification and commitment along the way. Establishing goals, assessing needs and determining priorities are essential steps. The model is based on several key points involving school staff, administrators and parents directing change from the top, basing decisions on hard data and driving change by evaluation and accountability. Developing an effective management team is a must. The standard curriculum development cycle of analysis, design, implementation and evaluation is bolstered by the CMP routine. Procedures are amply illustrated by 33 figures and 4 appendices that include sample survey forms, two articles on adolescents and a list of selected teacher competencies.
