Production-oriented and Comprehension-based Grammar Teaching in the Foreign Language Classroom Anna Mystkowska-Wiertelak, Mirosław Pawlak, 2012-03-02 The book addresses one of the key controversies in teaching foreign language grammar which is the utility of production oriented instruction as exemplified in the PPP sequence and comprehension based teaching as implemented in interpretation tasks and processing instruction It provides a thorough overview of issues related to learning and teaching grammar with a particular focus on input oriented approaches and reports the findings of four studies which sought to compare their effects with instruction based on different forms of output practice The findings serve as a basis for guidelines on how the two options can be successfully combined in the classroom

Applying Cognitive Grammar in the Foreign Language Classroom Jakub Bielak, Mirosław Pawlak, 2013-01-12 The monograph constitutes an attempt to demonstrate how Cognitive Grammar CG can be employed in the foreign language classroom with a view to aiding learners in better understanding the complexities of English grammar Its theoretical part provides a brief overview of the main tenets of Cognitive Grammar as well as illustrating how the description of English tense and aspect can be approached from a traditional and a CG perspective The empirical part reports the findings of an empirical study which aimed to compare the effects of instruction utilizing traditional pedagogic descriptions with those grounded in CG on the explicit and implicit knowledge of the Present Simple and Present Continuous Tenses. The book closes with the discussion of directions for further research when it comes to the application of CG to language pedagogy as well as some pedagogic implications.

Interfaces and Features in Second Language Acquisition Jia Wang, 2023-02-11. This book presents comprehensive and rigorous research on the acquisition of Chinese negation by L1 English and L1 Korean learners within the theoretical framework of the Interface Hypothesis and the Feature Reassembly Hypothesis. The results from grammaticality judgment data (N = 182) and learner corpus data (overall scale 15.19 million characters) reveal multiple factors contributing to the variability in L2 acquisition at the interfaces involved with Chinese negative structures, including L1 influence, the quantity, input frequency, and the quality of the target input, input consistency, and regularity, as well as L2 proficiency. These factors also underlie the detectability and reassembly of the realis features encoded with bu and mei, the two primary negation markers in Mandarin Chinese in different licensing contexts. Task modality (written vs. aural) seems to play a role in L2 learners' access to explicit and implicit knowledge about Chinese negation, but the effect of task modality is constrained by other factors such as structural feature complexity, L2 proficiency, and L1-L2 similarity. The approach of employing both elicited experimental data and authentic learner corpus data furnishes new evidence for the acquisition of Chinese negation by L2 learners. The findings of this study are of significance to the examination of the Interface Hypothesis and the Feature Reassembly Hypothesis in generative-oriented SLA research.

The Routledge Handbook of Second Language Acquisition and Individual Differences Shaofeng Li, Phil Hiver, Mostafa Papi, 2022-05-30. The Routledge Handbook of Second Language Acquisition and Individual Differences provides a thorough in-depth discussion of the theory, research, and pedagogy pertaining to the role individual difference (ID) factors play in second language acquisition (SLA). It goes beyond the traditional repertoire and includes 32 chapters covering a full spectrum of topics on learners' cognitive, conative, affective, and demographic/sociocultural variation. The volume examines IDs from two perspectives: one is how each ID variable is associated with learning behaviors, processes, and outcomes; the other is how each domain of SLA (such as vocabulary or reading) is affected by clusters of ID variables. The volume also includes a section on the common methods used in ID research, including data elicitation instruments such as surveys, interviews, and psychometric testing, as well as methods of data analysis such as structural equation modeling. The book is a must-read for any second language researcher or applied linguist interested in investigating the effects of IDs on language learning and for any educator interested in taking account of learners' individual differences to maximize the effects of second language instruction.

SLA Research and Materials Development for Language Learning Brian Tomlinson, 2016-05-20. SLA Research and Materials Development for Language Learning is the only book available to focus on the interaction between second language acquisition theory and materials development for language learning.
