Handbook of Human and Social Conditions in Assessment Gavin T. L. Brown, Lois R. Harris, 2016-06-23

The Handbook of Human and Social Conditions in Assessment is the first book to explore assessment issues and opportunities occurring due to the real world of human, cultural, historical, and societal influences upon assessment practices, policies, and statistical modeling. With chapters written by experts in the field, this book engages with numerous forms of assessment, from classroom-level formative assessment practices to national accountability and international comparative testing practices, all of which are significantly influenced by social and cultural conditions. A unique and timely contribution to the field of Educational Psychology, the Handbook of Human and Social Conditions in Assessment is written for researchers, educators, and policy makers interested in how social and human complexity affect assessment at all levels of learning Organized into four sections this volume examines assessment in relation to teachers students classroom conditions and cultural factors Each section is comprised of a series of chapters followed by a discussant chapter that synthesizes key ideas and offers directions for future research Taken together the chapters in this volume demonstrate that teachers test creators and policy makers must account for the human and social conditions that shape assessment if they are to implement successful assessment practices which accomplish their intended outcomes

Language Across the Curriculum & CLIL in English as an Additional Language (EAL) Contexts Angel M.Y. Lin, 2016-09-15 This book will be of interest to a broad readership regardless of whether they have a background in sociolinguistics functional linguistics or genre theories It presents an accessible meta language i e a language for talking about language that is workable and usable for teachers and researchers from both language and content backgrounds thus facilitating collaboration across content and language subject panels Chapters 1 to 3 lay the theoretical foundation of this common meta language by critically reviewing systematically presenting and integrating key theoretical resources for teachers and researchers in this field In turn Chapters 4 to 7 focus on issues in pedagogy and assessment and on school based approaches to LAC and CLIL drawing on both research studies and the experiences of front line teachers and school administrators Chapter 8 provides a critical and reflexive angle on the field by asking difficult questions regarding how LAC and CLIL are often situated in contexts characterized by inequality of access to the linguistic and cultural capitals where the local languages of the students are usually neglected or viewed unfavourably in relation to the L2 in mainstream society and where teachers are usually positioned as recipients of knowledge rather than makers of knowledge In closing Chapter 9 reviews the state of the art in the field and proposes directions for future inquiry

Teaching in Tension Frances Vavrus, Lesley Bartlett, 2013-06-13 In recent years international efforts to improve educational quality in sub Saharan Africa have focused on promoting learner centered pedagogy However it has not flourished for cultural economic and political reasons that often go unrecognized by development organizations and policymakers This edited volume draws on a long term collaboration between African and American educational researchers in addressing critical questions regarding how teachers in one African country Tanzania conceptualize learner centered pedagogy and struggle to implement it under challenging material conditions One chapter considers how international support for learner centered pedagogy has influenced national policies Subsequent chapters utilize qualitative data from classroom observations interviews and focus group discussions across six Tanzanian secondary schools to examine how such policies shape local practices of professional development inclusion gender and classroom discourse In addition the volume presents an analysis of the benefits and challenges of international research between Tanzanian and U S scholars illuminating the complexity of collaboration as it simultaneously presents the outcome of joint research on teachers beliefs and practices The chapters conclude with questions for discussion that can be used in courses on international development social policy and teacher education This volume written by a multi national team of scholar practitioners makes an important contribution to our understanding of learner centered teaching and collaborative educational research Based on an intensive investigation in Tanzania of a professional development program and teachers efforts to conceptualize and implement a globally promoted pedagogical approach the authors illustrate and critically analyze how these practices are enabled and constrained by cultural lenses power relations and material conditions Importantly they also examine reflexively how cultural power and resource issues shaped their struggle to engage in a collective praxis of qualitative inquiry The tensions referenced in the title sparked valuable insights which will be useful to educators researchers and policy makers Mark Ginsburg FHI 360 and Teachers College Columbia University
