Occurrence In The Immediate Unreality:

Occurrence in the Immediate Unreality Max Blecher, 2009 In childhood Blecher suffers crises of unreality and an eerie stage is set for a future of unsettling characters and events This autobiographical fiction offers an account of Blecher's ambiguous dream like experiences of sexual awakening as an adolescent Power and Literature Florin

Oprescu, 2018-08-21 At the core of this book lies the relation between Power as socio political phenomenon and the novel as literary discourse It shows that in a society facing the excess of power in its various forms novelistic fiction mediates knowledge about societal Power structures and uses specific strategies to subvert and denounce them The first part of the study is theoretical it presents some of the most prominent theories of Power from Plato Machiavelli Nietzsche to Weber Dahl Lukes Parsons Bourdieu or Foucault After offering a critical approach to the concepts of Power defined in the social political and philosophical fields it articulates the relations of Power imprinted in literary discourse within a typology of four categories In the second part of the book this taxonomy of Power is applied to four key novels in the context of Romanian literary crossroads showing how novelistic fiction not only assume a critical and subversive position against the excess of Power but also unveils our fragility when experiencing History Temporalities of Modernism Carmen Borbély, Erika

Mihálycsa, Petronia Petrar, 2023-03-22 Temporalities of Modernism gathers fourteen scholars whose contributions readdress the very tenets of modernism by approaching its multifaceted relationship with time in a series of fresh and original essays The contemporary energies behind the collection are rooted in the turbulence of the modernist age relativity irreversibility duration fragmentation contingency and the looming threat of the apocalyptic future The collection includes geographical areas often neglected by the habitual reduction of modernist studies to English speaking literary high modernism or to the concentration of famous figures in the traditional capital of modernism Paris Thus it offers detailed presentations of Italian pre WWI modernism Czech Dadaism or of Polish Romanian and Hungarian writers and artists The borders also open in terms of genres and mediums as the contributions are not limited to fiction but examine the multi faceted productions of modernist artists poetry theatre painting music cinema photography etc In addition the limits are temporally stretched out as some contributions focus on more recent writers such as Sylvia Plath and their reactivation of modernist discoveries Redes sin

The Monist Paul Carus,1914 Vols 2 and 5 include appendices The Collected Papers of Bertrand Russell: Theory of knowledge: the 1913 manuscript Bertrand Russell,1984 Dreams, Neuroscience, and Psychoanalysis Keramat Movallali,2017-02-03 Dreams Neuroscience and Psychoanalysis sets out to give a scientific consistency to the question of time and find out how time determines brain functioning Neurological investigations into dreams and sleep since the mid 20th century have challenged our scientific conception of living beings On this basis K ramat Movallali reviews the foundations of modern neurophysiology in the light of other trends in this field that have been neglected by the cognitive sciences trends that seem to be increasingly confirmed by recent research The author begins by giving a historical view of fundamental questions such as the nature of the living being according to discoveries in ethology as well as in other research especially that which is based on the theory of the reflex It becomes clear in the process that these findings are consistent with the question of time as it has been considered in some major contemporary philosophies This is then extended to the domain of dreams and sleep as phenomena that are said to be elucidated by the question of time The question is then raised can dreaming be considered as a drive Based on the Freudian discovery of the unconscious and Lacan's teachings Movallali seeks to provide a better understanding of the drives in general and dreams in particular He explores neuroscience in terms of its development as well as its discoveries in the function of dreaming as an altered mode of consciousness The challenge of confronting psychoanalysis with neuroscience forces us to go beyond their division and opposition Psychoanalysis cannot overlook what has now become a worldwide scientific approach Neuroscience just like the cognitive sciences will be further advanced by acknowledging the desiring dimension of humanity which is at the very heart of its being as essentially related to the question of time It is precisely this dimension that is at the core of psychoanalytic practice Dreams Neuroscience and Psychoanalysis will appeal to psychoanalysts and psychoanalytic psychotherapists as well as neuroscientists psychologists ethologists philosophers and advanced students studying across these fields The Body Bears the Burden Robert

Scaer,2014-01-03 When The Body Bears the Burden made its debut in 2001 it changed the way people thought about trauma PTSD and the treatment of chronic stress disorders Now in its third edition this revered text offers a fully updated and revised analysis of the relationship between mind body and the processing of trauma Here clinicians will find detailed thorough explorations of some of neurobiology's fundamental tenets the connections between mind brain and body and the many and varied ways that symptoms of traumatic stress become visible to those who know to look for them Emotions in Politics N. Demertzis,2013-10-31 Prompted by the affective turn within the entire spectrum of the social sciences this book brings together the twin disciplines of political psychology and the political sociology of emotions to explore the complex relationship between politics and emotion at both the mass and individual level with special focus on cases of political tension

Hanck,1982 Risk Management of Terrorism Induced Stress E. Vermetten,I. Frankova,L. Carmi,2020-02-21 Terrorism is a psychological weapon by definition its purpose is to spread terror or fear in order to achieve goals unattainable by more conventional means It is a weapon of asymmetric warfare whose success or failure is entirely dependent on the psychological reactions of its targets Despite this interest in the effects of terrorism from a behavioral and psychological perspective is relatively recent dating initially from the 1990s and boosted by the events of September 11th 2001 This book presents papers delivered at the NATO Advanced Research Workshop ARW Risk Management of Terrorism Induced Stress Guidelines for the Golden Hours Who What and When held in Odesa Ukraine from 16-19 September 2018. The aim of the workshop was to bring together experts from the military science and policy to revisit old guidelines and inform new research into novel approaches. The focus of the workshop was the so-called Golden Hours, the period immediately following a traumatic event in which therapeutic interventions are thought to have the most impact. What needs to be done in the immediate aftermath of terror, who is vulnerable and who is resilient, and when is intervention appropriate. The book is divided into sections covering the areas of biology, interventions, special populations, additional perspectives, policy, and future directions. Providing a comprehensive overview of the management of terror-related stress, the book will be of interest to planners and policy makers as well as mental health professionals working with PTSD and other consequences of terror events. The Cyclopaedia of Anatomy and Physiology Robert Bentley Todd, 1852
