	4	3	2	1
Finding Relevant Information	I know several strategies to help me find the information I need to make a good decision.	I know how to find the information I need to make a good decision.	With help, I can usually find the information I need to make a good decision.	I cannot find the information I need to make a decision.
Creating Options	I think of several possible choices when an important decision must be made.	I think of more than one option when I have to make an important decision.	When I have help, I can think of more than one option when I have to make an important decision.	I usually can only think of one possible choice when I have to make an important decision.
Weighing Options	I use a variety of reasoning strategies to weigh my options and choose the best one.	I think carefully about all my choices before I make a decision.	Unless someone reminds me, I often make decisions without thinking carefully about them.	I usually make important decisions quickly without thinking carefully about them.
Predicting Consequences	I predict the consequences of each of my decisions and think about the impact that they will have on others and me.	I think about the consequences of my decisions.	I have trouble thinking about what the consequences of my decisions will be.	I do not think about the consequences of my decisions.

The Theory and Practice of Grading Writing Frances Zak,Christopher C. Weaver,1998-02-05 CHOICE 1998

Outstanding Academic Books Grading is one of the thorniest issues writing teachers must deal with yet surprisingly little has been written on this topic As writing teachers move increasingly toward practices that focus on writing as a process they face a growing need to reconsider their systems of grading to determine whether or not these systems support their pedagogies The authors interrogate the grading of individual papers as well as portfolios and the assigning of end of term grades This collection explores the issues and problems that have emerged as conventional grading practices have lagged behind and been challenged by new theories of language. While the book will be of interest to theorists, Zak and Weaver have also made the book relevant and useful to teachers whose primary interest is the practical consequences of theory in their classrooms. Where theoretical discussion takes place, the language is clear and accessible. Many of the authors write directly from personal experience, telling stories of the classroom or writing of new techniques and approaches they have tried. They speak with the voices of teachers, and the tone and content of their words convey a sense of the immediacy of the topic.

Automated Essay Scoring Beata Beigman Klebanov, Nitin Madnani, 2022-05-31 This book discusses the state of the art of automated essay scoring, its challenges, and its potential. One of the earliest applications of artificial intelligence to language data, along with machine translation and speech recognition, automated essay scoring has evolved to become both a revenue-generating industry and a vast field of research with many subfields and connections to other NLP tasks. In this book, we review the developments in this field against the backdrop of Elias Page's seminal 1966 paper titled "The Imminence of Grading Essays by Computer." Part 1 establishes what automated essay scoring is about, why it exists, where the technology stands, and what are some of the main issues. In Part 2, the book presents guided exercises to illustrate how one would go about building and evaluating a simple automated scoring system, while Part 3 offers readers a survey of the literature on different types of scoring models, the aspects of essay quality studied in prior research, and the implementation and evaluation of a scoring engine. Part 4 offers a broader view of the field, inclusive of some neighboring areas, and Part 5 closes with summary and discussion. This book grew out of a week-long course on automated evaluation of language production at the North American Summer School for Logic, Language, and Information (NASSLLI), attended by advanced undergraduates and early-stage graduate students from a variety of disciplines. Teachers of natural language processing in particular will find that the book offers a useful foundation for a supplemental module on automated scoring. Professionals and students in linguistics, applied linguistics, educational technology, and other related disciplines will also find the material here useful.
