Yonkers Concepts And Challenges In Earth Sciences Atmosphere:

Beyond IPM: Introduction to the Theory of Holistic Pest Management Juan F. Barrera, 2020-04-07 About 15 years ago we asked ourselves why the methods developed by the research institutions for the management of pests were almost not used by small landholder farmers It seemed obvious to us that conventional pest control called Integrated Pest Management was based on a reductionist approach In reviewing the literature on the subject we found that our concern was not new or unique The agreement of some authors with our ideas reinforced our efforts to find a holistic approach to pest management We took two central ideas to develop the holistic approach First pest management actions must put the farmer at the center of the system Second pest management must consider not only both pests but the other important components of the system in question This approach based on the farmers and the systems in which they are immersed is called Holistic Pest Management or HPM In this book I present the philosophy and practice of HPM a new paradigm of pest management

Disciplines Carolin Kreber, 2010-07-15 University teaching and learning take place within ever more specialized disciplinary settings each characterized by its unique traditions concepts practices and procedures It is now widely recognized that support for teaching and learning needs to take this discipline specificity into account However in a world characterized by rapid change complexity and uncertainty problems do not present themselves as distinct subjects but increasingly within trans disciplinary contexts calling for graduate outcomes that go beyond specialized knowledge and skills This ground breaking book highlights the important interplay between context specific and context transcendent aspects of teaching learning and assessment It explores critical questions such as What are the ways of thinking and practicing characteristic of particular disciplines How can students be supported in becoming participants of particular disciplinary discourse communities Can the diversity in teaching learning and assessment practices that we observe across departments be attributed exclusively to disciplinary structure To what extent do the disciplines prepare students for the complexities and uncertainties that characterize their later professional civic and personal lives Written for university teachers educational developers as well as new and experienced researchers of Higher Education this highly anticipated first edition offers innovative perspectives from leading Canadian US and UK scholars on how academic learning within particular disciplines can help students acquire the skills abilities and dispositions they need to succeed academically and also post graduation

Carolyn Kreber is Professor of Teaching and Learning in Higher Education and the Director of the Centre for Teaching Learning and Assessment at the University of Edinburgh
