Ronald J. Burke, Edward C. Tomlinson, 2016-05-13 Although increasing attention has been paid to it there are no signs that crime and corruption in organizations is decreasing so if you re a manager or government policy maker and your mandate is to reduce crime and corruption where do you start The international authors of this book fill a critical need to address such a prevalent and costly topic with a detailed analysis of the risks associated with crime and corruption in organizations They examine the causes and consequences and the choices we face in our efforts to eradicate these social maladies They focus on the risks to individuals and organizations surrounding criminal and corrupt acts with an emphasis on the psychological behavioral and organizational factors supporting such behaviors Finally they explore the phenomenon of crime and corruption across a diverse array of organizational settings ranging from public to private for profit to non profit and occupational categories e g police officers physicians accountants and academicians The constant barrage of scandals publicized by the media demands front burner attention dedicated to stemming this tide Accordingly this book turns to prominent researchers employing their talents to produce more ethical organizations The result is the most up to date thinking on both classic e g cognitive moral development and novel e g moral attentiveness approaches to crime and corruption as well as scientifically grounded approaches to reducing illicit behavior in organizations Author Index to Psychological Index, 1894 to 1935, and Psychological Abstracts, 1927 to 1958 Columbia University. Numerical Development - From cognitive functions to neural underpinnings Korbinian Moeller, Elise Klein, Klaus F Willmes - von Hinckeldey, Karin Kucian, 2015-02-24 Living at the beginning of the 21st century requires being numerate because numerical abilities are not only essential for life prospects of individuals but also for economic interests of post industrial knowledge societies Thus numerical development is at the core of both individual as well as societal interests There is the notion that we are already born with a very basic ability to deal with small numerosities Yet this often called number sense seems to be very restricted approximate and driven by perceptual constraints During our numerical development in formal e g school but also informal contexts e g family street we acquire culturally developed abstract symbol systems to represent exact numerosities in particular number words and Arabic digits refining our numerical capabilities In recent years numerical development has gained increasing research interest documented in a growing number of behavioural neuro scientific educational cross cultural and neuropsychological studies addressing this issue Additionally our understanding of how numerical competencies develop has also benefitted considerably from the advent of different neuro imaging techniques allowing for an evaluation of developmental changes in the human brain In sum we are now starting to put together a more and more coherent picture of how numerical competencies develop and how this development is associated with neural changes as well In the end this knowledge might also lead to a better understanding of the reasons for atypical numerical development which often has grievous consequences for those who suffer from developmental dyscalculia or mathematics learning disabilities Therefore this Research Topic deals with all aspects of numerical development findings from behavioural performance to underlying neural substrates from cross sectional to longitudinal evaluations from healthy to clinical populations To this end we included empirical contributions using different experimental methodologies but also theoretical contributions review articles or opinion papers Deaf Professionals and Designated Interpreters Peter C. Hauser, Karen L. Finch, Angela B. Hauser, 2008 This collection defines a new model for interpreting dependent upon close partnerships between the growing number of deaf attorneys educators and other professionals and their interpreters
