

Psychology 5: NEUROSCIENCE: SPECIALIZATION

Science 1000 Fall 2024

Section 00

Section Supplement (S2) 2024

This activity describes what researchers have learned about the special abilities of the left and right sides of the brain. You will learn how information is processed in these two hemispheres and about the unique functions of each.

Hemispheric Connections

What does that mean? That the left & right sides communicate.

Each hemisphere communicates with the opposite side of the body. This means that a speech on the left hand would be represented in the right hemisphere? Right

What about when the right side, which hemisphere controls the primary information? All

The dominant pattern is used most for the most complex. When right side the left side, which hemisphere controls the information? Right

How is the cross pathway from the right different from that of the left or right?

Early studies on brain research, left brain research, the study of people who had their corpus callosum cut or removed split brains.

If a participant's corpus callosum was cut, a task is placed in the right hand, how would you guess that the person would respond? The patient would name the object.

If a participant's corpus callosum was cut, a task is placed in the left hand, how would you guess that the person would respond? The person would not be able to speak or write or read.

Department of Psychology, Pennsylvania State University

In an additional experiment, words are flashed rapidly on the left or right visual field of the patient. They are asked to name the words. For example, when the word appears in the left visual field and the patient is able to read the word, the left side of the brain is reading the word. The left is also controlling language.

In a different task, a split brain patient has to make a comparison of two pictures and describe the results. When the left hand is used to make the picture, using only the right hand, the patient is not able to describe the picture. The left brain is not as active as the right. The split brain patient will have difficulty with describing with the right hand. The right hand controls the left brain.

Is it that simple? Some research on split brain patients can name objects placed in the right hand and some that words flashed in the visual field.

However, split brain research suggests that the left hemisphere is not the only hemisphere controlling language.
