

Factors Affecting Rxn Rates

Factor 4: catalyst

- catalyst is a sub (chemical) that increases the rate of a chem rxn w/o itself being consumed in the rxn.
- not a reactant ($A + B \xrightarrow{\text{catalyst}} C$)
- Explanation: By lowering E_A
- Enzymes are biological catalysts
- Note: a catalyst does not yield more product

Organometallic Chemistry E W Abel, F G A Stone, 2007-10-31 Organometallic chemistry is an interdisciplinary science which continues to grow at a rapid pace Although there is continued interest in synthetic and structural studies the last decade has seen a growing interest in the potential of organometallic chemistry to provide answers to problems in catalysis synthetic organic chemistry and also in the development of new materials This Specialist Periodical Report aims to reflect these current interests reviewing progress in theoretical organometallic chemistry main group chemistry the lanthanides and all aspects of transition metal chemistry Specialist Periodical Reports provide systematic and detailed review coverage of progress in the major areas of chemical research Written by experts in their specialist fields the series creates a unique service for the active research chemist supplying regular critical in depth accounts of progress in particular areas of chemistry For over 80 years the Royal Society of Chemistry and its predecessor the Chemical Society have been publishing reports charting developments in chemistry which originally took the form of Annual Reports However by 1967 the whole spectrum of chemistry could no longer be contained within one volume and the series Specialist Periodical Reports was born The Annual Reports themselves still existed but were divided into two and subsequently three volumes covering Inorganic Organic and Physical Chemistry For more general coverage of the highlights in chemistry they remain a must Since that time the SPR series has altered according to the fluctuating degree of activity in various fields of chemistry Some titles have remained unchanged while others have altered their emphasis along with their titles some have been combined under a new name whereas others have had to be discontinued The current list of Specialist Periodical Reports can be seen on the inside flap of this volume

The Publishers' Trade List Annual, 1979 Alkaline Rocks and Carbonatites of the World, Part 4 A.R. Woolley, 2019-09-02 The alkaline igneous rocks and carbonatites are compositionally and mineralogically the most diverse of all igneous rocks and apart from their scientific interest are of major and growing economic importance They are important repositories of certain metals and commodities indeed the only significant sources of some of them and include Nb the rare earths Cu V diamond phosphate vermiculite bauxite raw materials for the manufacture of ceramics and potentially Th and U The economic potential of these rocks is now widely appreciated particularly since the commencement of the mining of the Palabora carbonatite for copper and a host of valuable by products Similarly the crucial economic dominance of rare earth production from carbonatite related occurrences in China has stimulated the world wide hunt for similar deposits This volume describes and provides ready access to the literature for all known occurrences of alkaline igneous rocks and carbonatites of Antarctica Asia and Europe excluding the former USSR Australasia and oceanic islands More than 1 200 occurrences from 59 countries are outlined together with those of 57 oceanic islands and island groups The descriptions include geographical coordinates and information on general geology rock types petrography mineralogy age and economic aspects with the principal references cited There are 429 geological and distribution maps and a locality index As has been demonstrated by the three earlier volumes the present book is likely to be of considerable interest to mineral exploration companies as there are no comprehensive published reviews of the economic aspects of the alkaline rocks It will also interest research scientists in the fields of igneous petrology and volcanology and geologists concerned with the regional distribution of igneous rocks and their geodynamic relationships
