Leadership Approaches to Negotiate Challenges in a Changing Education Landscape Leentjie van Jaarsveld,Kobus Mentz,Charl C. Wolhuter,2020-12-31 The argumentative point of departure of this scholarly book is the common conviction of specialists in the field of education in South Africa that the national education system is not at a satisfactory level in both the academic and the public discourse Such allegations are made and frequently stronger adjectives than non satisfactory are used Results of international test series in which South Africa has participated such as the 2015 TIMSS tests confirm the negative verdicts found in the public and scholarly discourse This book aims to argue that although the lack of performance could be attributed to a multiplicity of factors one factor that can make a difference in the achievement levels obtained by learners in schools is leadership The book demonstrates that a particular problem of both the scholarly and the public discourse on education in South Africa is an overtone of defeatism or resignation blaming all ills in the education system and educational institutions on historical legacies and or contextual factors such as socio economic deprivation in the catchment areas of schools or poor resources and infrastructure This collected work was inspired by a recently published spate of articles on top performing schools including top performing schools in rural communities in which it was demonstrated that good leadership can overcome such contextual and other challenges The book unpacks the issue of leadership in South African schools from a variety of perspectives thus contributing to the development of the scholarly discourse on Educational Leadership in South Africa The target audience of the book is scholars of Educational Leadership The research reported in the chapters draw on a wide range of methodologies including empirical survey research questionnaires and interviews critical literature surveys and the comparative method

Medium-Term Budget Frameworks in Sub-Saharan African Countries Mr. Richard I Allen, Taz Chaponda, Ms. Lesley Fisher, Rohini Ray, 2017-09-11 More than 15 years ago many countries in sub Saharan Africa embarked on a program of budgetary reform an important element of which was a medium term budget framework MTBF This working paper focuses on the performance of these frameworks in six countries Kenya Namibia South Africa Tanzania Uganda and Zambia It assesses the effectiveness of MTBFs in achieving improved fiscal discipline resource allocation and certainty of funding as well as wider economic and social criteria such as poverty reduction and more efficient public investment In most countries early successes were not sustained and budgetary outcomes did not improve partly for technical reasons such as poor data and inadequate forecasting methodologies but also because the reforms were largely supply driven The paper argues that the development of MTBFs typically falls into four distinct phases To make the transition from one phase to the next developing countries should focus on building their capability in macrofiscal forecasting and analysis and in improving the credibility of the annual budget process

Politics in South Africa Tom Lodge, 2003 This insightful study now completely revised and in its second edition examines the pattern of politics that has emerged in South Africa under the Mandela and Mbeki administrations In considering the changes brought about in power relations in the country since 1994 the book looks at among other things the shape of regional and local politics land reform the Truth and Reconciliation Commission and the extent of political corruption Further chapters consider the future prospects of South African democracy and provide assessments of both Nelson Mandela and his successor as President Thabo Mbeki This well informed and crisply written introduction will appeal to both students of contemporary politics and general readers interested in the new democracy North America Indiana U Press South Africa David Philip NAB Epidemics Sarah Dry, Melissa Leach, 2010-09-23 Recent disease events such as SARS H1N1 and avian influenza and haemorrhagic fevers have focussed policy and public concern as never before on epidemics and so called emerging infectious diseases Understanding and responding to these often unpredictable events have become major challenges for local national and international bodies All too often responses can become restricted by implicit assumptions about who or what is to blame that may not capture the dynamics and uncertainties at play in the multi scale interactions of people animals and microbes As a result policies intended to forestall epidemics may fail and may even further threaten health livelihoods and human rights The book takes a unique approach by focusing on how different policy makers scientists and local populations construct alternative narratives accounts of the causes and appropriate responses to outbreaks about epidemics at the global national and local level The contrast between emergency oriented top down responses to what are perceived as potentially global outbreaks and longer term approaches to diseases such as AIDS which may now be considered endemic is highlighted Case studies on avian influenza SARS obesity H1N1 influenza HIV AIDS tuberculosis and haemorrhagic fevers cover a broad historical geographical and biological range As this book explores it is often the most vulnerable members of a population the poor the social excluded and the already ill who are likely to suffer most from epidemic diseases At the same time they may be less likely to benefit from responses that may be designed from a global perspective that neglects social ecological and political conditions on the ground This book aims to bring the focus back to these marginal populations to reveal the often unintended consequences of current policy responses to epidemics Important implications emerge for how epidemics are thought about and represented for how surveillance and response is designed and for whose knowledge and perspectives should be included Published in association with the Economic and Social Research Council ESRC Global Jurisprudential Apartheid in the Twenty-First Century Howard Tafara Chitimira, Artwell Nhemachena, Tapiwa Victor Warikandwa, 2021-09-27 In Global Jurisprudential Apartheid in the Twenty First Century Universalism and Particularism in International Law the contributors argue that the world is witnessing the formation of a global jurisprudential apartheid despite the promotion of democracy equality human rights and humanitarianism Examining organisations such as international criminal courts the World Trade Organisation the United Nations Security Council the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank the contributors unpack the challenges of global jurisprudential apartheid In particular they analyse the ways in which these organizations hold and contribute to the increasing inequalities between the Global North and the Global South Ultimately Global Jurisprudential Apartheid in the Twenty First Century shows that globalisation is a variant of the apartheid era particularism and not universalism working to advantage the Global North while disadvantaging the Global South under the pretense of humanitarianism
