What Went Wrong with Psychology? Myths, Metaphors and Madness John Martin, Robert Spillane, 2018-07-27 In a fascinating analysis of the great psychological and sociological thinkers including Freud Maslow McClelland Durkheim Skinner Lewin and Mead this erudite text challenges the models myths and metaphors of modern psychology Psychologists have promoted the view that human beings are the victims of internal and external forces and have laboured to absorb free and responsible individuals into a pseudo scientific framework that denies moral agency and thus renders them incapable of recognising notions of right and wrong This book will appeal to anyone who has read enough psychology to have been perplexed and frustrated by its famous emperors It demonstrates that if we take these naked emperors seriously and deny human freedom and personal responsibility we shall have contributed to the undermining of our civilisation With skill and verve the book carries readers through an array of ideas to a purposive psychology that enables individuals to gain insight into and mastery of themselves seventh edition of A History of Psychology The Emergence of Science and Applications traces the history of psychology from antiquity through the early twenty first century giving students a thorough look into psychology's origins and key developments in basic and applied psychology. It presents internal disciplinary history as well as external contextual history emphasizing the interactions between psychological ideas and the larger cultural and historical contexts in which psychologists and other thinkers conduct research, teach and live. It also has a strong scholarly foundation and more than 400 new references. This new edition retains and expands the strengths of previous editions and introduces several important changes. The text features more women, people of color and others who are historically marginalized as well as new sections about early Black psychology and barriers faced by people who are diverse. It also includes expanded discussions of eugenics and racism in early psychology. There is new content on the history of the biological basis of psychology, the emergence of qualitative methods and ecopsychology, ecotherapy and environmental psychology. Recent historical findings about social psychology including new historical findings about the Stanford Prison Experiment, Milgram's obedience research and Sherif's conformity studies have also been incorporated. Continuing the tradition of past editions, the text focuses on engaging students and inspiring them to recognize the power of history in their own lives, to connect history to the present and the future and to think critically and historically.

To Understand and to Help Lydia Averell Hurd Smith, 1985. Susan Isaacs, an English psychologist and educator, was a pioneer in child development studies. This work examines Isaac's many books and articles and concludes that while she was very much a part of her times in the fields of child psychology, mental testing, psychoanalysis and progressive education, what she said about children's development and the role played by the adults in their lives has a considerable claim on contemporary attention.

Autobiography as Philosophy, Readings in Educational Psychology Ronald K. Parker, 1968 Mishima, Aesthetic Terrorist Andrew Rankin, 2018-09-30 Half a century after his shocking samurai style suicide Yukio Mishima 1925 1970 remains a deeply controversial figure Though his writings and life story continue to fascinate readers around the world Mishima has often been scorned by scholars who view him as a frivolous figure whose work expresses little more than his own morbid personality In Mishima Aesthetic Terrorist Andrew Rankin sets out to challenge this perception by demonstrating the intelligence and seriousness of Mishima's work and thought Each chapter of the book examines one of the central ideas that Mishima develops in his writings life as art beauty as evil culture as myth eroticism as transgression the artist as tragic hero narcissism as the death drive Along with fresh readings of major works of fiction such as The Temple of the Golden Pavilion and Patriotism the book introduces less familiar works in different genres Special prominence is given to Mishima's essays which contain some of his most brilliant writing Mishima is concerned with such problems as the loss of certainties and absolute values that characterizes modernity and the decline of strong identities in a world of increasing uniformity and globalization In his cultural criticism Mishima makes an impassioned defense of free speech and he rails against all forms of authoritarianism and censorship Rankin reads Mishima's artistic project up to and including his spectacular death as a single sustained lyric an aggressive piece of performance art unfolding in multiple media For all his rebellious energies Mishima's work is suffused with a sense of ending the end of art the end of eroticism the end of culture the end of the world and it is governed by a decadent aestheticism which holds that beautiful things radiate their most intense beauty on the cusp of their destruction Erudite and authoritative yet written in clear accessible prose Mishima Aesthetic Terrorist is essential reading for all those who seek a deeper understanding of this radical and provocative figure

Ecological Psychology in Context Harry Heft, 2001-07-01 In this book Harry Heft examines the historical and theoretical foundations of James J Gibson's ecological psychology in 20th century thought and in turn integrates ecological psychology and analyses of sociocultural processes A thesis of the book is that knowing is rooted in the direct experience of meaningful environmental objects and events present in individual environment processes and at the level of collective social settings Ecological Psychology in Context traces the primary lineage of Gibson s ecological approach to William James s philosophy of radical empiricism illuminates how the work of James s student and Gibson s mentor E B Holt served as a catalyst for the development of Gibson s framework and as a bridge to James s work reveals how ecological psychology reciprocally can advance Jamesian studies by resolving some of the theoretical difficulties that kept James from fully realizing a realist philosophy broadens the scope of Gibson s framework by proposing a synthesis between it and the ecological program of Roger Barker who discovered complex systems operating at the level of collective social processes demonstrates ways in which the psychological domain can be extended to properties of the environment rendering its features meaningful publicly accessible and distributed across person environment processes and shows how Gibson s work points the way toward overcoming the gap between experimental psychology and the humanities Intended for scholars and students in the areas of ecological and environmental psychology theoretical and historical psychology cognitive science developmental psychology anthropology and philosophy

Writing as a Learning Tool Päivi Tynjälä,L. Mason,K. Lonka,2012-12-06 In a brief summary the debate concerning the nature of writing processes is about whether the essential characteristic of expertise in writing is a matter of mastering problem solving strategies In this respect the role of social and interactive factors such as writers familiarity with the particular genre in which they are writing and their relationship with the discourse community in which they are participating have been pointed out e g Nystrand 1989 According to the socio interactive approach which refers to Vygotsky s theory the composition process is a dialogue between the writer and the reader made possible by socially shared knowledge The meaning of a text is a social construct that is negotiated between the reader and the writer through the medium of the text The importance of motivational aspects has also been highlighted by two main lines of research studies of the relationship between writing and self efficacy e g Pajares Benton Corkill Sharp Downey Khramtsova 1995 Hidi McLaren 1990 1991 Self efficacy in this context individuals beliefs about their ability to produce certain types of texts have been found to be predictive of writing skills strategy use and writing performance
