

Internship Reflection Paper

Your reflection paper should be a well-crafted and thoughtfully written critical analysis of your internship experience.

- Required length: 750-800
- Due to the Career Center: (Deadline determined at beginning of each semester)
- Can be turned in to Career Center or by email to cbcenter@csu.edu

Student Name:	Semester and Year of Internship:
Faculty Sponsor:
Internship Site:	Internship Supervisor:

Attach your reflection paper to this form and submit it to the Career Center by the due date. Your opinions will be considered when recommending sites to future students. Your faculty sponsor will assign you a pass/fail grade for the internship based on your supervisor's evaluation of you along with your reflection paper.

Address the overall quality of the internship. How valuable did you think it was and why?
Please note using this scale and elaborate in your reflection paper.

1. Very Valuable
2. Somewhat Valuable
3. Neutral
4. Not very valuable
5. Not valuable at all

The reflection paper should address, but does not need to be limited to, the following:

- Describe your activities at the internship.
- The relationship between your internship work and your studio work.
- What you learned through your internship and how it made of value to your academic and career goals.
- A description of the most important assignment(s) and why they were significant.
- What surprised you about the internship, if anything.
- Whether the internship has changed your perception of what you want to do.

Psychology Internship Reflection Paper:

Clinical Psychology Internship for Underrepresented Students Anatasia Kim, Abigail Johal, 2021-08-16 This text introduces Taking Flight a year long clinical psychology internship program to be implemented for students of color and first generation college bound students. The program offers hands on opportunities for participants to develop skills that will propel them to seek advanced degrees in mental health. The book offers a comprehensive internship curriculum based on a culturally affirming mentorship framework that aims to increase interns' exposure of clinical psychology, build confidence in their ability, and foster a sense of belonging as a means to inspire educational and career pursuits in the field. Chapters cover topics such as common mental health concerns, self reflections and insights research and clinical approaches, capstone projects and presentations, and integration of knowledge, skills, and self concept. An appendix includes worksheets to utilize throughout the course of the program. The program is designed to be operated within psychology departments in partnership with local high schools. The text will guide mental health providers and school professionals to executing this program in the hopes of ensuring a more diverse and inclusive clinical psychology workforce.

Internship Training in Professional Psychology Richard Henry Dana, W. Theodore May, 1987 First published in 1987 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company. Teaching Psychology Jillian Grose-Fifer, Patricia J. Brooks, Maureen O'Connor, 2019-02-12 A guide to an evidence based approach for teaching college level psychology courses. Teaching Psychology offers an evidence based student centered approach that is filled with suggestions, ideas, and practices for teaching college level courses in ways that contribute to student success. The authors draw on current scientific studies of learning, memory, and development with specific emphasis on classroom studies. The authors offer practical advice for applying scholarly research to teaching in ways that maximize student learning and personal growth. The authors endorse the use of backward course design emphasizing the importance of identifying learning goals encompassing skills and knowledge and how to assess them before developing the appropriate curriculum for achieving these goals. Recognizing the diversity of today's student population this book offers guidance for culturally responsive ethical teaching. The text explores techniques for teaching critical thinking, qualitative and quantitative reasoning, written and oral communication, information and technology literacy, and collaboration and teamwork. The authors explain how to envision the learning objectives teachers want their students to achieve and advise how to select assessments to evaluate if the learning objectives are being met. This important resource offers an evidence based approach designed to help graduate students and new instructors embrace a student centered approach to teaching Contains a wealth of examples of effective student centered teaching techniques Surveys current findings from the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning Draws on the American Psychological Association s five broad goals for the undergraduate Psychology major and shows how to help students build life long skills and Introduces Universal Design for Learning as a framework to support diverse learners Teaching Psychology offers an essential guide to evidence based teaching and provides practical advice for becoming an effective teacher This book is designed to help graduate students new instructors and those wanting to update their teaching methods It is likely to be particularly useful for instructors in psychology and other social science disciplines

The Teaching Internship Linda Darling-Hammond, Rand Corporation, 1990 This report presents proposed standards for teaching internship programs. The internship standards are intended to be embedded in a state's teacher licensing system. The year-long paid internship is simultaneously the last year of formal teacher preparation, the first year of supervised teaching, and one requirement for the unrestricted teaching license. An intern would have to satisfactorily complete the internship before taking the final examination to receive a teaching license. The report is intended to provide guidance to teaching standards boards as well as colleges of education, school districts, and others concerned with improving the practical preparation of teachers. The discussion is presented in four sections: 1. The Case for a Supervised Teaching Internship; 2. Internships in the Licensed Professions; 3. Standards for an Internship Program; and 4. Implementing the Internship: The Value of Clinical Schools. The appendices provide examples of evaluation forms, an extract from Minnesota's Vision for Teacher Education, Stronger Standards, New Partnerships, the Code of Ethics for Minnesota Teachers, and detailed descriptions of internship programs in four licensed professions: engineering, psychology, architecture, and medicine. A bibliography completes the volume.

Multidisciplinary Approaches to Culminating Student Experiences Michael G. Strawser, Robin Yaure, 2024-05-14 Despite the relatively recent popularity of culminating experiences, a multidisciplinary and practical resource that provides information for all types of culminating student experiences is not yet available. The idea for this volume arose because of the recognition that a holistic and applied resource for those looking to have general knowledge of different ways to assess student learning, especially at the undergraduate level, was lacking. This text seeks to fill a gap and provide a historical context for culminating experiences, suggestions for assessment, foundational knowledge for different types of projects, and finally approaches to using these experiences in various disciplines. Because of the information desired, experts in their field from a wide variety of disciplines were approached to be chapter contributors. This resource focuses predominantly on undergraduate students, but many of the chapters can either be applied to both undergraduate and graduate students or specifically focus on the graduate student population. e.g., dissertation.
