Module 3. National tuberculosis prevalence surveys World Health Organization, 2025-07-10

National TB prevalence surveys are a key tool used by WHO to estimate the burden of TB disease in a country Repeat surveys allow for the assessment of trends and of the impact of interventions to reduce the burden of disease thus helping to track progress towards the milestones and targets for reductions in TB incidence set in the WHO End TB Strategy Between 2007 and 2024 a total of 36 surveys in 32 countries were implemented using the screening and diagnostic methods recommended by WHO These surveys were guided by two

WHO publications first in 2007 and then in 2011. Since then major technological developments have occurred and important lessons have been learned from surveys implemented. This new edition is intended to support the design, implementation, analysis and reporting of national TB prevalence surveys in the period up to about 2030. It includes major revisions to the diagnostic algorithms that are recommended for use in national TB prevalence surveys and in turn the case definitions used to count the number of survey participants who have TB disease, updated guidance on sampling design and the analysis and reporting of data based on the new diagnostic algorithms and case definitions, updated and considerably expanded guidance on data management, updated guidance on chest radiography, clinical management, survey management and field operations, and new chapters on testing for HIV and comorbidities, survey monitoring, comparisons with previous surveys, reporting and dissemination of survey results and use of survey data.

Global Nutrition Report 2016 International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI), 2016-06-14. Few challenges facing the global community today match the scale of malnutrition, a condition that directly affects 1 in 3 people. Malnutrition manifests itself in many different ways: as poor child growth and development, as individuals who are skin and bone or prone to infection, as those who are carrying too much weight or whose blood contains too much sugar, salt, fat or cholesterol, or those who are deficient in important vitamins or minerals. Malnutrition and diet are by far the biggest risk factors for the global burden of disease. Every country is facing a serious public health challenge from malnutrition. The economic consequences represent losses of 11 percent of gross domestic product (GDP) every year in Africa and Asia, whereas preventing malnutrition delivers 16 in returns on investment for every 1 spent. The world's countries have agreed on targets for nutrition, but despite some progress in recent years, the world is off track to reach those targets. This third stocktaking of the state of the world's nutrition points to ways to reverse this trend and end all forms of malnutrition by 2030.

Achieving a nutrition revolution for Africa Hendriks, Sheryl L., 2016-10-17. Focusing the 2015 Annual Trends and Outlook Report (ATOR) on nutrition will contribute to a broader understanding of the critical role of nutrition in achieving international, continental and national economic growth targets through agriculture, food security and nutrition. This report presents information and analysis in support of evidence-based policy making that should inform the second generation of CAADP national investment plans now being developed. This is an important moment for shaping the region's future and ensuring that the much-needed agriculture-led growth and development agenda can simultaneously deliver on improving nutrition, saving lives, improving productivity and health, and curbing nutrition-related diseases and the associated public health expenditures. These investment plans should address not only the usual elements of undernutrition, but also widespread micronutrient deficiencies, termed hidden hunger, and the growing problem of overweight and obesity that is associated with economic growth.
