community have done their damage As a result Labour history in its broad school sense has been taught less and less in British universities Yet it survives and there are grounds for believing that it will revive This collection of chapters arose from a conference held at the University of Huddersfield in November 2010 held under the auspices of the Society for the Study of Labour History where nineteen papers were presented Ten of this disparate array of papers form the basis of this collection The theme of community and localised struggle form the first section ranging as it does from the newspapers representation of Yorkshire miners to brass bands and the development of separate culture The second section deals with the more traditional trade unionism and varieties of industrial struggle The third section focuses upon the political aspects of working class activity drawing upon the role of women and Labour policy on steel nationalisation and defence The fourth deals with radicalism ranging from the failure of Chartism the policy of working class organisations to emigration and the failure of the soft section of the British left in the 1920s and 1930s There is no all embracing concept here for what is a varied collection of chapters However what can be said is that British Labour history continues to provide new areas for research Indeed its death as an academic discipline has been greatly exaggerated This collection of book chapters represents the current revival in Labour history which has emerged in a form that brings together community and culture alongside class and political representation to explore the breadth and depth of working class identity University Chronicle ,1868 Culture and Political Psychology Thalia Magioglou,2014-03-01 This book is perhaps the first systematic treatment of politics from the perspective of cultural psychology Politics is a complex that psychology usually fails to understand as it assumes a position in society that attempts to be free of politics itself Politics is associated both with an everyday practice and the dynamics of globalization with the way group conflicts ideologies social representations and identities are lived and co constructed by social actors The authors of the book address these issues through their research grounded in different parts of the world on democracy and political order the social representation of power gender studies the use of metaphors and symbolic power in political discourse social identities and methodological questions The book will be used by social and political psychologists but is also of interest to the other social sciences political scientists sociologists anthropologists educationalists and it is at a level where sophisticated lay public would be able to appreciate its coverage Its use in upperlevel college teaching is possible and expected at graduate postgraduate levels Transformative Civic Education in Democratic Societies Tetyana Hoggan-Kloubert,Paul E Mabrey III,Chad Hoggan,2023-08-01 Democracy is neither inevitable nor guaranteed to last To survive democracy needs people adequately prepared to enact it Such preparation for effective citizenship in a complex and plural world requires an adult civic education one that goes beyond simple knowledge acquisition It requires a transformative education to help learners become agents and co shapers of their worlds This book offers examples of the roles that civic education has played and can play in different communities In this collection scholars from around the world report and reflect on civic adult education examining approaches paradigms and concepts that help us to act in culturally ethnically linguistically and religiously diverse societies
