Poem With All Poetic Devices:

Poetry in Irish prose - poetic devices in Sean O'Faolain's short stories Alexandra Berlina, 2004-06-11 Essay from the year 2004 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 1 University of Dusseldorf Heinrich Heine Anglistics course Seminar Irish Literature and Sean O Faolain language English abstract It was simple to define poetry hundred years ago a poem had to contain a measure rhythm and rhymes Nowadays none of them is indispensable any more So what is poetry In my opinion poetry is primarily qualified by a concentrated language I feel certain that there is a relationship between the German words Dichte concentration denseness and Dichter poet writer In a poem every single word should be essential no word random nothing to delete or to add There is only one literary genre where this tightness of language is almost as important the short story Sean O Faolain wrote poems in his youth and then he switched to short stories It seems to me that he did not consider himself talented enough as a poet to publish his verses maybe partly because of the experience he describes in his autobiography Vive moi as a student he was laughed at for his naive poem about Mother Ireland's teeming navel but still felt a desire to write poetry Interestingly the twenty four years old hero of How to write a short story with whom the author seems to identify had rested from writing poetry and was trying to write short stories The short story is a genre that has a long tradition in Ireland and many Irish masters but that is surely not the only reason why O Faolain wrote mainly short stories He must have felt the close relationship between them and verses He wrote prose but smuggled poetry into it O Faolain either placed his own poems into his stories a few times for example in Hymenial or quoted other poets there far more frequently or he made whole passages of his prose sound remarkably poetic and this he did in almost every story To analyze this phenomenon I have chosen O Faolain's later stories from 1970 on the collections The Talking Trees and Other Stories Foreign Affairs and Other Stories and the last stories published only after the author's death By the time he wrote them he was not so susceptible for outer influences as in his youth These works are more mature and original they contain less romantic and other clichés than his early experiments Therefore these compositions are more interesting to study and to decompose into single metaphors similes alliterations etc especially if there are many of them at once as it often occurs in his stories I did not use any secondary literature because I wanted to study O Faolain's way of writing by myself
