General description

The SNB 1000/2000 numbering system is a single channel, table-top unit, which provides a convenient method of automatically numbering documents with 11-digit numbers. It has a very effective crash numbering capability for use on multi-part forms made with carbonless copy paper or carbon sets.

The speed of automatic numbering, when combined with the built-in auto-stop, is most important when the unit is used in conjunction with a high-speed copier. It is controlled by means of a three-position height adjustment control.

The pneumatic footswitch leaves both the operator's hands free to hold and move papers. Mounted magnetic reed sensors are provided to ensure correct positioning of the documents. The system is most suitable for high speed (800) duplicators, but the paper separator can be made to copy too.
