Sol Plaatje University Residential Form For 2016:

Sol Plaatje's Mhudi Sabata-mpho Mokahe, Brian Willan, 2021 Sol Plaatje's Mhudi is the first full length novel in English to have been written by a black South African and is widely regarded as one of South Africa's most important literary works. Set in the 1830s it tells the tale of Mhudi and Ra Thaga a romantic story set against a violent backdrop of war between Barolong and Matebele complicated by the intrusions of Boer trekkers with whom the Barolong form an alliance. It is notable among other things for the way Plaatje uses the past to explore the roots of the oppression and injustice suffered by his people a century later when the book was written. Page 4 of cover Space and planning in secondary cities Lochner Marais, Verna Nel, 2019-09-01 Much of the urban research focuses on the large metropolitan areas in South Africa. This book assesses spatial planning in the second tier cities of the country. Secondary cities are vital as they perform essential regional and in some cases global economic roles and help to distribute the population of a country more evenly across its surface. Apartheid planning left South African cities fragmented, segregated and with low densities. Post-apartheid policies aim to reverse these realities by emphasising integration, higher densities and upgrading. Achieving these aims has been challenging and often the historical patterns continue. The evidence shows that two opposing patterns prevail, namely increased densities and continued urban sprawl. This book presents ten case studies of spatial planning and spatial transformation in secondary cities of South Africa. The book frames these case studies against complexity theory and suggests that the post-apartheid response to apartheid planning represents a linear deviation from history. The ten case studies then reveal how difficult it is for local decision makers to find appropriate responses and how current responses often result in contradictory results. Often these cities are highly vulnerable and they find it difficult to plan in the context of uncertainty. The book also highlights how these cities find it difficult to stand on their own against the influence of interest groups, property developers, mining companies, traditional authorities, other spheres of government. The main reasons include weak municipal finance statements, the dependence on national and provincial government for capital expenditure, limited investment in infrastructure maintenance, the lack of planning capacity, the inability to implement plans and the unintended and sometimes contrary outcomes of post-apartheid planning policies.

Sol Plaatje's Native Life in South Africa Janet Remington, Brian Willan, Bhekizizwe Peterson, 2016-10-01 Sheds new light on Native Life appearing at a critical historical juncture and reflects on how to read it in South Africa's heightened challenges today. First published in 1916 Sol Plaatje's Native Life in South Africa was written by one of the South Africa's most talented early twentieth century black leaders and journalists. Plaatje's pioneering book arose out of an early African National Congress campaign to protest against the discriminatory 1913 Natives Land Act. Native Life vividly narrates Plaatje's investigative journeying into South Africa's rural heartlands to report on the effects of the Act and his involvement in the deputation to the British imperial government. At the same time it tells the bigger story of the assault on black rights and opportunities in the newly consolidated Union of South Africa and the resistance to it. Originally published in war time London but about South Africa and its place in the world Native Life travelled far and wide being distributed in the United States under the auspices of prominent African American W E B Du Bois South African editions were to follow only in the late apartheid period and beyond The aim of this multi authored volume is to shed new light on how and why Native Life came into being at a critical historical juncture and to reflect on how it can be read in relation to South Africa s heightened challenges today Crucial areas that come under the spotlight in this collection include land race history mobility belonging war the press law literature language gender politics and the state
