

Repetition in Poetry

The wind was wild, the wind was stout.
It blew my bedroom window out.
it blew my clothes around the street.
it swirled around my head and feet.
And after all was said and done,
it flew me quickly towards the sun,
up through the sky and out to space.
I felt a smile across my face.

You Are What You Read Robert DiYanni, 2022-10-25 How you can enrich your life by becoming a more skillful and engaged reader of literature We are what we read according to Robert DiYanni Reading may delight us or move us we may read for instruction or inspiration But more than this in reading we discover ourselves We gain access to the lives of others explore the limitless possibilities of human existence develop our understanding of the world around us and find respite from the hectic demands of everyday life In You Are What You Read DiYanni provides a practical guide that shows how we can increase the benefits and pleasures of literature by becoming more skillful and engaged readers DiYanni suggests that we attend first to what authors say and the way in which they say it rather than rushing to decide what they mean He considers the various forms of literature from the essay to the novel the short story to the poem demonstrating rewarding approaches to each in sample readings of classic works Through a series of illuminating oppositions he explores the paradoxical pleasures of reading solitary versus social reading submitting to or resisting the author reading inwardly or outwardly and more DiYanni closes with nine recommended reading practices thoughts on the different experiences of print and digital reading and advice on what to read and why Written in a clear inviting and natural style You Are What You Read is an essential guide for all who want to enrich their reading and their life

Weaving Words Janice K. Jones, 2014-06-26 Weaving Words raises important questions about the impact of 21st century practices of education upon human creativity and joy in making meaning through writing It questions how writing is experienced and valued as a process and product of research as a means for personal and professional learning and how it is taught and experienced in the classroom and in teacher education Weaving Words brings together a range of critical perspectives upon writing within global agendas for education and research and considers the capacity for writing and reflection to disrupt and transform personal and professional understandings The parallel traditions of spinning and weaving and the sharing of stories through the spoken and written word shape the structure of this book its warp is constituted by chapters written by researchers in education its weft by the poems plays short stories and reflections of pre service teachers Both researchers and pre service teachers consider the challenges of becoming writers and the contradictions they encounter in transferring their understandings of being a writer to the teaching of writing with younger authors and in conducting research as writing Weaving Words engages with emerging debates around what forms of writing are valued and supported within 21st century teaching and research it demonstrates the power of writing for personal expression suggesting that writing that is creative opens spaces for making meaning and for constructing the world that are important for practices of education and for research
