

Oxidation and Reduction

When happens when elements are transformed in a chemical reaction?

What?

Below reactions show us process in nature as it occurs with either compounds in the air. Copper gets oxidized in dissolved gases present in lakes. Metals react or corrode in the presence of dissolved water. Sulfuric acid is transported through the air from the atmosphere and then rain or other water in presence of sulfuric acid compounds. All of these reactions are examples of oxidation and reduction, otherwise known as redox reactions. In this section you will explore what is happening in the atomic level in redox reactions.

Model 1 – Redox Reactions

Redox Reactions:

Redox Reactions:

- What type of reactions are shown in Model 1?

Redox reactions and combustion reactions.

- Examine the redox and combustion reactions in Model 1. Select three representative reactions and explain what would occur if you removed them as redox reactions? If you had specific examples from Model 1 as support, give reasons.

There is no reaction taking place. Nature cannot understand anything without them.
