Molecular Aspects of Innate and Adaptive Immunity Kenneth B M Reid, Robert B Sim, 2008-09-29 The understanding at the molecular level of the interactions between innate and adaptive arms of the immune system is currently a hot topic particularly to those interested in immunology especially susceptibility to infectious diseases This book provides a survey of topics in the area of innate and adaptive immunity which have been researched within the MRC Immunochemistry Unit at Oxford University over a period of forty years The topics include antibody structure for which the first Director of the Immunochemistry Unit Professor RR Porter was awarded a Nobel prize in 1972 the characterization of membrane proteins on lymphoid cells leading to the concept of these molecules belonging to an immunoglobulin super family the proteins of the human serum complement system one of the body's major defences against microbial infection the human cell surface integrins and the hyaluronan binding proteins which are involved in regulation of inflammation at cell surfaces and within the extracellular matrix the family of collectin molecules containing distinct globular carbohydrate binding domains linked to collagen like regions which play important roles in innate immunity in the lungs and bloodstream by immediate recognition and clearance of microbial pathogens Each chapter in the book gives a brief historical background to a topic and then provides a survey of recent advances in the field and are written by internationally recognised renowned experts The theme running through the chapters is that of protein structure function relationships including amongst others descriptions of quaternary structures of large oligomeric proteins of Factor H and C1q binding to specific ligands and of the chemistry of the mechanism of catalysis of covalent binding of activated C3 and C4 proteins to nucleophilic groups on microbial surfaces In several chapters excellent descriptions are given with respect to how the immune system can be recruited to combat microbial infection via proteins of both the innate and adaptive immune systems The book also includes notable chapters which are excellent examples of the importance of how the isolation characterisation protein engineering and crystallisation has resulted in a full understanding of complex protein protein interactions involved in the recognition and triggering events of important sections of the immune system Structure and Function of the C1 Complex G rard J Arlaud Chemical Engineering of Therapeutic Antibodies George T Stevenson Leukocyte surface proteins purification and characterisation A Neil Barclay Cell Surface Integrins Suet Mien Tan and S K Alex Law This book is aimed primarily at established senior research scientists postdoctoral research scientists and PhD students who have an interest in proteins of the immune system However the wide range of immunity system topics while staying broadly within innate adaptive immunity will also appeal to a wider audience Natural Immunity Lorand Bertok, Donna Chow, 2005-05-31 Natural Immunity is a broadly based account of the activities of the evolutionarily conserved molecules cells and processes of the natural immune system This encompasses the early host protection against microbes bacteria and viruses and tumours prior to the generation of the adaptive immune response diverse major current pathologies including inflammatory and autoimmune diseases and key roles in essential physiological processes such as reproduction and wound healing The first comprehensive book on natural immunity Reviews new topics effects of behaviour aging and exercise and diet on natural immunity Highlights the physiological role of natural immunity Focuses on the relationship of the neuroendocrine system with natural immunity Brings together the diversity and complexity of natural immune system activity
