

The Activity Series

Woods students have already observed some metals.

W-level

Using all your observational powers, we compare all metals in this class. Some react to chemical reactions. Others require more or less effort, depending on the conditions. However, some metals react in all circumstances, and some metals will never react in other chemical ways. Woods people use these as building materials and while you learn to use them, you will find that in this system, we will explain the activity series.

Model 1 – Reactivity of Metals

Notes: Woods students will observe: 1) metals that react in all circumstances 2) metals that react in some circumstances 3) metals that do not react in any circumstances
