Nickel Metal Hydride (NiMH) Batteries

Observe the following guidelines when using Nikon EN-ELH1 and EN-ELH2 NiMH batteries.

- Different rechargeable battery series charges at different voltages, so must be charged in the 100-110 or 220-240 V battery charger battery box only.

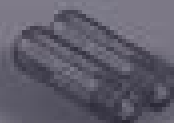

Batteries may become hot when charged. Observe the cautions after handling batteries during or after charging.

Under certain use conditions, batteries that become used in other portable electronic appliances may charge with some problems. This is normal and does not indicate a problem.

- New batteries and batteries that have been left unused for an extended period tend to lose their charge capacity. This is normal for NiMH batteries and the batteries will regain a charge after being used and recharged several times.

Batteries will become hot when recharging in some recharge mode quickly if:

- The battery and charger terminals are inserted thoroughly with a steady push before charging to remove fingerprints, and other debris that can slowly reduce battery performance.
- They are charged at an ambient temperature of 10-30°C (50-86°F).
- They are fully recharged until fully extended (just until the orange light turns green) (EN-ELH1) or changed to the red and blue light (EN-ELH2) on charging.
