Read the poem below and answer the following questions.

You see us when you walk on the street,
Sitting on the ground or lying
at your feet.
You feel your head with your
nose in the air,
To let us know that you don't care.

You look at us if it were a crime,
When we say "Hey, kindly can you
spare a dime?"
But you can say "no" and just turn away
without even as much as a look
of dismay.

It's horrible the way we live
each day.
When we have to eat what you
throw away.
You live in a house,
we live on the street
in a cardboard box, do you think
it has heat?

For we are not animals, we don't
live in a zoo.
Can't you look in our eyes and
see we are human beings, too?
You have love, a family, a home.
We have nothing but emptiness;
we're alone.

So the next time you're walking
down the street,
Please give some thought to the
homeless you meet.
Can you send some love and
kindness our way?
To brighten perhaps just one day.
For we are people, we had hopes and dreams too.
But we weren't born as lucky as you.
