Electronegativity is a measure of the ability of an atom's nucleus to attract electrons from a different atom within a covalent bond. A higher electronegativity value correlates to a stronger pull on the electrons in a bond. This value is only theoretical. It cannot be directly measured in the lab.

12. Using the definition stated in the Read This! box above, select the best visual representation for electronegativity. Explain your reasoning.

13. Locate the electronegativity values in Model 1.

- a. What is the trend in electronegativity going down a group in Model 1?

Electronegativity decreases as you go down a group (vertical column).

- b. Explain the existence of the trend described in part a in terms of atomic structure and Coulombic attraction.

The ability to attract electrons is based upon attractive force. The greater the distance between the nucleus and valence electrons, the less the attractive force. Less force means a lower electronegativity.

- c. What is the trend in electronegativity going across a period in Model 1?

- d. Explain the existence of the trend described in part c in terms of atomic structure and Coulombic attraction.

The greater the number protons in an atom, in a particular period, the greater the attractive force between the nucleus and valence electrons. The greater attractive force means a higher electronegativity.

14. The two diagrams below can summarize each of the three trends discussed in this activity. Write "atomic radius," "ionization energy," and "electronegativity" under the appropriate diagram.
