

SANDF provides opportunities to the youth

Anelise Zikoli

When Sindiswa Hlongwana (22) applied to be part of the South African National Defense Force's (SANDF) Military Skills Development System (MSDS) she had no idea that she was also on a journey of making her dream of becoming a mid-wife come true.

Hlongwana who is from Durban, KwaZulu-Natal applied for the MSDS course in 2021 after she attended a career exhibition where she received the application forms from the SANDF.

"I had an interest to serve and we were also struggling at home financially. I realised that the MSDS programme would give me financial independence as well since the programme offered a stipend."

The Military Skills Development System (MSDS) is administered by the SANDF. It is a voluntary service system that allows young South African citizens to serve in uniform. Young people who take part in this course also have an opportunity to further their studies within the military or develop their skills.

This year, the South African Army, South African Air Force, South African Navy and South African Military Health Service are calling on young people to serve.

Hlongwana says, the MSDS programme has changed her life. She is currently doing her first year towards a Diploma in Nursing at the South African Military Health Service Nursing College which is based at the Military Formation Training Center in Centurion, Pretoria.

Her passion for caring for others and to serve communities inspired her to pursue her dream of owning a mid-wife clinic in the rural areas one day. "People who live in rural areas need more help in delivering babies easier. That is where I want to serve," says Hlongwana.

The MSDS is open for the 2024 intake

The MSDS has opened applications for new recruits nationwide, the closing date is on 28 February 2023.

Sandf Recruits 2015:

South Africa's Post-Apartheid Military Lindy Heinecken, 2020-01-01 This timely book examines how the South African National Defence Force has adapted to the country's new security political and social environment since 1994. In South Africa's changed political state, how has civilian control of the military been implemented and what does this mean for defence in a democracy? This book presents an overview of the security environment, how the mission focus of the military has changed and the implications for force procurement, force preparation, force employment and force sustainability. The author addresses other issues such as the effect of integrating former revolutionary soldiers into a professional armed force, the effect of affirmative action on meritocracy, recruitment and retention, military veterans looking at the difficulties they face in reintegrating back into society and finding gainful employment, gender equality and mainstreaming the rise of military unions and why a confrontational instead of a more corporatist approach to labour relations has emerged. HIV/AIDS and the consequences this holds for the military in terms of its operational effectiveness. In closing, the author highlights key events that have caused the SANDF to become lost in transition and transformation, spelling out some lessons learned. The conclusions she draws are pertinent for the future of defence, security and civil-military relations of countries around the world.

SADC Gender Protocol 2015 Barometer Morna, Colleen Lowe, Dube, Sifiso, 2016-02-22 In August 2008 Heads of State of the Southern African Development Community adopted the ground-breaking SADC Protocol on Gender and Development. This followed a concerted campaign by NGOs under the umbrella of the Southern Africa Gender Protocol Alliance. The SADC Gender Protocol is the only sub-regional instrument that brings together existing global and continental commitments to gender equality and enhances these through time-bound targets. Aligned to Millennium Development Goal Three, the original 28 targets of the Protocol expire in 2015. Now that 2015 is here, we need to step back, assess and reposition. In June 2014 SADC Gender Ministers agreed to review the targets of the Gender Protocol in line with the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). In May this year, ministers added that they want the Protocol to be accompanied by a Monitoring, Evaluation and Results Framework. The 2015 Barometer shows that implementation is now the biggest missing gap in the quest for gender equality. Now is the time to strengthen, resolve, reconsider, reposition and re-strategise for 2030.
