J. Knezevic, 1997-07-31 Maintainability is of crucial importance throughout industry and is established as one of the most important issues in the aerospace and defence arena No new system can be introduced without full maintainability analysis and demonstration a type of analysis which reduces life cycle costs by decreasing operational and maintenance costs and increasing systems operational effectiveness leading in turn to the creation of more competitive products This book establishes the full methodology for maintainability mathematics and modelling as well as the relationship between the maintainability and maintenance processes      16th International Technical Conference on the Enhanced Safety of Vehicles
, 1998      Multi-Scale Integrated Analysis of Agroecosystems Mario Giampietro, 2003-11-24 Ecologists agronomists and others who may question the validity of current models for determining sustainable growth of agroecosystems need a new set of analytical tools that more effectively address the complex nature of related processes Those who challenge traditional assumptions of optimization and static factors in agricultural modeling demand new methods beyond differential equations and traditional statistical tests Multi Scale Integrated Analysis of Agroecosystems explores alternative ways to study agricultural sustainability presenting new approaches to organizing data and applying complex systems theory to actual cases This innovative text recognizes the changing dynamics of the multiple processes and cross relations within an environment proposing a clearer analysis of agroecosystems than that which can be provided by rigid reductionist methods

Main concepts new vocabulary and narratives and practical examples open the book followed by technical chapters that provide a more detailed explanation of concepts The final section of the book presents a tool kit based on these concepts resulting in strong support of empirical observations that challenge traditional notions regarding the sustainability of farming systems food systems and agroecosystems Marketing Management, 3rd Edition Kumar Arun & Meenakshi N., In today's socially networked and highly competitive world it is imperative that marketers are always truthful because customers eventually find out if they have been misled This can lead to their angst with the company going viral thereby destroying the company's reputation Marketing Management advocates marketing based on absolute truth Also brand image is sensitive to market sentiments Brands can be in danger one wrong product or one shoddy campaign can destroy a brand built over years Companies must align everything that they do with the core spirit of their brands Further when everything seems to go digital it is important that marketers keep in mind that customers are primarily interested in their products services The book advocates that superior products and services will always be central to marketing Key Features Best Practices Researched implemented and result driven practices taken from leading companies across diverse industries throughout the world Marketers can adopt these practices to elevate individual and organizational performance Corporate Insights Examples of marketing concepts being implemented by well known Indian companies and brands Latest moves of companies and brands as they cope with competition and environment Case Studies A brief case study after each chapter focusing on specific issues dealt within the chapter Specialized Questions Questions meant to make students ponder upon various aspects of marketing and challenge the existing paradigms Transport Statistics Great Britain Department for Transport, Local Government and the Regions / National Statistics, Great Britain. Marketing and Feminism Miriam Catterall, Pauline Maclaran, Lorna Stevens, 2013-11-05 This cutting edge innovative volume offers the best of current scholarship on feminist perspectives in marketing. Through many exciting and often controversial discussions it highlights and challenges assumptions about women and gender in marketing theory and practice from both historical and current contexts. Key issues and debates include the dark side of female consumption, women and marketing in Socialist economies, women and advertising, ecofeminism and marketing, gender marketing and cultural diversity, marketing sex and sexuality. Written by internationally recognised experts in marketing and feminism, this book makes a unique contribution to marketing scholarship.

Light Vehicle Tyres Neil Mullineux, 2004 The tyre industry is the largest single rubber manufacturing industry in the world. The high performance demanded of tyres has led to extensive research and development in this field and constant innovation. This report takes an overview of the latest technology combined with the market situation worldwide. Three large companies, Bridgestone, Goodyear and Michelin, now dominate the world tyre market with a share of about 56 per cent. There then follow four mid-sized companies which have about 18 per cent of the world market: Continental, Sumitomo, Pirelli and Yokohama, with a combined share of 17.6 per cent. In total, eleven companies account for 81.6 per cent of the world market. Even though the largest companies have a turnover well in excess of USD10bn, they remain largely specialist tyre manufacturers. Many of the smaller companies also concentrate almost exclusively on tyres. However, the medium-sized companies are diversifying away from tyre manufacturing. Unusually, if not uniquely in the automotive components industry, the tyre manufacturers only sell a minority of their output to OEMs; component is the size of the replacement market or aftermarket: three quarters of road tyres are sold as replacement tyres and only one quarter as original equipment. The big three tyre manufacturers dominate the OE market, but other large regional players also have a share, particularly in Europe. Worldwide, the replacement tyre market for light vehicles represents about 714m tyres. The replacement tyre market is certainly more profitable for the tyre manufacturers, but it has distinct problems. The general problems of slow growth and market maturity are exacerbated by cyclical growth in supply to OEMs. Despite the poor profitability of sales to OE customers and even though the replacement market represents over 70 per cent of the passenger car tyre industry's sales, tyre makers' profitability is also cyclical. The replacement market is a relatively profitable sector of the overall tyre market, but it cannot compensate for the vagaries of the OE market. A traditional indication of market maturity is continual pricing pressure in the market; small competitors to keep continual pressure on prices. In broad terms, a tyre which cost USD69.90 in 1979 sold for USD41.02 in 2003. The major companies within the tyre industry are all constrained by the laws of economics and subject to similar commercial pressures. In very broad terms, the cost of tyre manufacture breaks into three parts: raw materials, labour and fixed costs. The tyre industry has high fixed costs, making it extremely difficult to improve returns unless costs are cut or market share gained.

Raw materials typically represent 25 per cent of the selling price of a car tyre. Labour costs represent about 30 per cent of sales and this has led to a move for manufacture in lower labour cost countries. This has been helped by relatively low transportation costs for the inter regional movement of tyres about USD1.2 for a passenger tyre. In the last decade all manufacturers have tried to increase productivity in existing operations in order to become low cost producers. The continuing drive for improved productivity has resulted in excess capacity in many areas and product sectors than demand. There is a close relationship between aggregate supply and profitability for individual tyre companies. As a result there have been gradual moves towards consolidation. Before 1985 a dozen large companies dominated the world tyre market but after a rapid series of mergers and acquisitions seven companies emerged with three quarters of the market.

Japanese Foreign Investments, 1970-1998 Dipak R. Basu, Victoria Miroshnik, 2000. Drawing on numerous Japanese and non Japanese primary and secondary sources this highly informative book analyzes all aspects both domestic and international of foreign direct investment made by Japan's multinational corporations in Asia, the European Union and the U.S. It covers the critical period from 1970 the point at which Japan's economy reached a level of global importance through 1998 the nadir of Japan's economic woes. The book offers numerous perspectives to explain the changing characteristics of Japan's FDI practices over the period. The text is well supported by some 50 figures and data tables compiled from both Japanese government ministries and multinational corporations.
