Mark Priestley,2018-08-14 This work is a historical and philosophical study of the programming work carried out by John von Neumann in the period 1945-8 At the heart of the book is an examination of a manuscript featuring the earliest known surviving example of von Neumann's coding a routine written in 1945 to mesh two sequences of data and intended to be part of a larger program implementing the algorithm now known as mergesort The text of the manuscript itself along with a preliminary document describing the code he used to write this program are reproduced as appendices The program is approached in three chapters describing the historical background to von Neumann's work the significance of the sorting application itself and the development of the EDVAC the machine for which the program was written The subsequent chapters widen the focus again discussing the subsequent evolution of the program and the crucial topic of subroutines before concluding by situating von Neumann's work in a number of wider contexts The book also offers a unifying philosophical interpretation of von Neumann's approach to coding NREC Technical Manual National Resource Evaluation Center (U.S.),1965 Technical Abstract Bulletin Defense Documentation Center (U.S.),1964 Department of Defense Catalog of Logistics Models ,1990 Handbooks Defense Documentation Center (U.S.),1962 PISA 2012 Results: Creative Problem Solving (Volume V) Students' Skills in Tackling Real-Life Problems OECD,2014-04-01 This fifth volume of PISA 2012 results presents an assessment of student performance in problem solving which measures students capacity to respond to non routine situations in order to achieve their potential as constructive and reflective citizens The World Politics of Social Investment: Volume I Julian L. The Class Structure of Capitalist Societies, Volume 3
Will Atkinson, 2024-04-01 This book continues the Class Structure of Capitalist Societies series by exploring the place of class among a confluence of factors in shaping people s lives loves and lifestyles across three nations Previous volumes in the series examined the shape history and cultural expressions of class structures Now grappling with themes usually put under the labels of intersectionality and work life balance and bridging literatures seldom brought together this volume uses an innovative mix of statistical techniques to untangle the messy nexus of factors class age gender race ethnicity intimate relations political context and more underpinning everyday routines spaces possessions practices im possibilities and self perceptions in the US Germany and Sweden In the process it advances the specific vision of class and social relations developed by Pierre Bourdieu pursuing the case above all that conceptual and methodological progress is necessary to fully recognise and explore the multiplicity of desires dispositions and demands at play in people s lives The volume will be of major interest to scholars of class culture gender and family but will appeal to anyone interested in the interplay of identities and pressures implicated in contemporary experiences and inequalities

The determination of the hazards resulting from the accidental or deliberate contamination of terrestrial and aquatic environments is in most countries still limited to the detection and quantification of the suspected pollutants by chemical analyses Such an approach is unfortunately hampered by the following constraints the costs as well as the technical difficulties of analyzing every individual chemical which may be present in the samples and the difficulty of assessing the hazards and risks of environmental contaminations from a set of chemical data During the last decades the scientific and regulatory community has gradually realized that biological methodologies have to be taken into consideration for an ecologically meaningful assessment of the toxicological hazards of contaminants Effect evaluations obtained with biological techniques indeed integrate the impact of all the contaminants to which living biota are exposed Bioassays with selected test species representative for the biological communities of the environments under consideration are now applied more or less regularly to determine toxic and genotoxic effects Taking into account the species specific and chemical specific character of toxicity to biota the necessity of a battery of tests approach with species of different trophic levels is currently also generally accepted and implemented It is clear that a balanced partnership between chemical biological toxicological and microbiological analyses is always the best strategy for generating the broadest information base on environmental hazards
