Color Psychology Paper

Research Question:

How does color affect one's mood?

Review of Literature:

Colors may just seem simple and unimportant, but they affect our daily lives more than we may know. If someone is feeling angry, it could just be because they're angry, or it could be perhaps that they are surrounded by or looking at the color red. That's right! People's moods can change just because they are looking at different colors! There are many theories on how just a simple color can change one's whole mood.

According to Johnson (2007), color does affect mood by producing certain chemicals and stimulating different feelings such as hunger. For example, blue can make one feel calm because it releases calming chemicals, and red can make one hungry because it is an appetite stimulant. Yellow can make one feel irritated, and it is a fact that people lose their temper most in yellow rooms. However, pink is tranquilizing and can make one feel weak. In conclusion, Johnson says that depending on the color, one's body can do things (like producing chemicals) that cause a certain emotional reaction (mad, sad, etc.).

Another idea, by Smith (2007), is that the effect color produces is based on what one's body does in response. For example, yellow is mentally stimulating, and activates memory, whereas red increases confidence. Also, brown can make a person feel orderly and stable, while a dark blue can make one feel sad. Therefore, Smith says that different colors do in fact change one's mood and the consequences can be negative or positive.

A third writer, Wollard, (2000) seems to think that color can affect one's mood, but the effect also can depend on one's culture and what one's personal reflection may be. For example, someone from Japan may not associate red with anger, as people from the U.S. tend to do. Also, a person who likes the color brown may associate brown with happiness. However, Wollard does think that colors can make everyone feel the same, or close to the same, mood. According to Wollard, pink reduces aggression, which is why the walls of the jail cells in the Seattle prison are pink! Also, brown can make one feel comforted. Wollard feels that colors do affect one's mood, but there are other factors that can alter what one is supposed to feel.

Eric, John, and Paraag's (2007) main point about color psychology is that color has both a physiological and psychological effect. For example, green makes people feel relaxed because it relaxes their muscles and makes them breathe deeper and more slowly. Furthermore, blue lowers blood pressure, which makes one feel calm. Eric, John, and Paraag conclude that color affects one's mood because of what it does to the body.

Devoted to Child Study* Earl Barnes, 1897. Historical Foundations of Educational Psychology John A. Glover, Royce R. Ronning, 2013-11-11. This volume represents a beginning effort to compile a history of educational psychology. The project began innocuously enough several years ago when we decided to add more material about the history of educational psychology to the undergraduate course we were teaching. What seemed like a simple task became very complex as we searched in vain for a volume dealing with the topic. We ended up drawing on various histories of psychology that devoted anywhere from a few paragraphs to several pages to the topic and on a very few articles addressing the issue. We were startled frankly by the apparent lack of interest in the history of our field and decided to attempt to compile a history ourselves. As is the case with any edited volume the contributing authors deserve credit for its positive features. They uniformly made every effort asked of them and taught us much about educational psychology. Any errors or omissions are our responsibility alone. The Child-study Monthly and Journal of Adolescence, 1896. Volume 6 nos 5 and 6 and v 7 no 1 from Transactions of the Illinois society for child study. A Practical Guide to Child Observation and Assessment Christine Hobart, Jill Frankel, 2004. Packed with examples of observation techniques skills and documented examples this text covers the child observation components of all major child care courses in particular CACHE CCE and DCE NVQ Level 2 and 3 as well as BTEC. Child Study, 1899. Child-study Monthly, 1900. Issues for Nov 1900 and Feb 1901 include the Transactions of the Illinois Society for Child Study v 5 no 1 2. Learning Through Child Observation Mary Fawcett, 2009-07-15. This fully updated second edition of Learning Through Child Observation is a handbook for professionals working in or students preparing to work in children's services. This accessible text examines the value of observation its use in assessment and the practical aspects and methods of observational study. The author focuses on the importance of fully recognising the child's developmental and emotional state when intervening and the need to see children holistically and as unique individuals within the wider context of the family and community. New chapters include Views of Children and Childhood which draws on European educational and sociological perspectives and highlights the contrasting views of children and The Hundred Languages of Children which considers the place of creative engagement and multiple forms of expression by children. With new material and updated chapters this second edition of a popular text will appeal to students and professionals in all children's services whether in pre school schools social care mental health or health settings. Photography, 1892. Oswaal NTA CUET (UG) Mock Test Papers | English, Accountancy, Business Studies, General Test & Economics (Set of 5 Books) | For 2025 Exam Oswaal Editorial Board, 2024-09-09.
