Summative/End-Point Assessment for the EYF5

The Importance of Assessment in the Early Years

The Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS) sets out information and requirements in relation to proactively observing and assessing children so it is crucial to building your understanding of the whole child and their individual characteristics, skills and interests. Assessment of children in the early years can help you to promptly recognise any gaps in learning and allow you to implement appropriate support at the earliest point, ensuring the needs of both the child and their family are met.

Unlike Formative Assessments (which are ongoing in the form of interactions and observations that inform planning), Summative Assessments are carried out at specific times or end-points. They may also include development milestones.

Types of Summative Assessments:

Developmental Progress Review

The Developmental Progress Review is a summative assessment that is carried out at the end of the Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS) to assess a child's progress against the EYF5 outcomes. It is a formal assessment that is carried out by the early years provider and is used to inform the child's next steps in learning.
