Environmental Dispute Resolution Lawrence S. Bacow, Michael Wheeler, 2013-06-29 This book has its origins in an M I T research project that was funded by the U S Environmental Protection Agency EPA Our immediate objective was to prepare a set of case studies that examined bargaining and negotiation as they occurred between government environmental advocates and regulatees throughout the traditional regulatory process The project was part of a larger effort by the EPA to make environmental regulation more efficient and less litigious The principal investigator for the research effort was Lawrence Suskind of the Department of Urban Studies and Planning Eight case studies were prepared under the joint supervision of Suskind and the authors of this book Studying the negotiating behavior of parties as we worked our way through an environmental dispute proved enlightening We observed missed opportunities for settlement negotiating tactics that backfired and strategies that appeared to be grounded more in intuition than in thoughtful analysis At the same time however we were struck by how often the parties ultimately managed to muddle through People negotiated not out of some idealistic commitment to consensus but because they thought it better served their own interests When some negotiations reached an impasse people improvised mediation These disputants succeeded in spite of legal and institutional barriers even though few of them had a sophisticated understanding of negotiation      Binghamton Wastewater Management Study United States. Army. Corps of Engineers. Baltimore District,1976      Sacramento River Water Reliability Study ,2005

Hendricks,2006-01-13 The unit process approach common in the field of chemical engineering was introduced about 1962 to the field of environmental engineering An understanding of unit processes is the foundation for continued learning and for designing treatment systems The time is ripe for a new textbook that delineates the role of unit process principles in environmental engineering Suitable for a two semester course Water Treatment Unit Processes Physical and Chemical provides the grounding in the underlying principles of each unit process that students need in order to link theory to practice Bridging the gap between scientific principles and engineering practice the book covers approaches that are common to all unit processes as well as principles that characterize each unit

process Integrating theory into algorithms for practice Professor Hendricks emphasizes the fundamentals using simple explanations and avoiding models that are too complex mathematically allowing students to assimilate principles without getting sidelined by excess calculations Applications of unit processes principles are illustrated by example problems in each chapter Student problems are provided at the end of each chapter the solutions manual can be downloaded from the CRC Press Web site Excel spreadsheets are integrated into the text as tables designated by a CD prefix Certain spreadsheets illustrate the idea of scenarios that emphasize the idea that design solutions depend upon assumptions and the interactions between design variables The spreadsheets can be downloaded from the CRC web site The book has been designed so that each unit process topic is self contained with sidebars and examples throughout the text Each chapter has subheadings so that students can scan the pages and identify important topics with little effort Problems references and a glossary are found at the end of each chapter Most chapters contain downloadable Excel spreadsheets integrated into the text and appendices with additional information Appendices at the end of the book provide useful reference material on various topics that support the text This design allows students at different levels to easily navigate through the book and professors to assign pertinent sections in the order they prefer The book gives your students an understanding of the broader aspects of one of the core areas of the environmental engineering curriculum and knowledge important for the design of treatment systems
