Although more recent studies have gone beyond the preoccupation with the colonial relationship to provide a more Asia-centric view, On the Edge of the Banda Zone is the first to focus an anthropological lens on the dynamics of trade in a specific area that incorporates the Seram Laut and Gorom archipelagoes and the adjacent mainland of east Seram in the Moluccas. The point of departure for Roy Ellen's analysis is a description of trade relations in the east Seram zone between 1970 and 1990, but the wider importance of the data presented here is readily apparent. For five hundred years and probably much longer, it has served as a corridor between Eurasia and the southwestern Pacific and played a vital role in the production and distribution of nutmeg and other high-value commodities that have for centuries had an impact on the global economy. Drawing on the author's fieldwork as well as archival and secondary sources, this ambitious eclectic volume demonstrates the enduring continuities in the local system as it comes into contact with the changing outside world. It illuminates how barter, ecological and ethnic divisions of labor, exchange patterns, and the organization of trade between the peoples of the New Guinea coast and east Seram help us make sense of long-term cycles and trends. Road and Track, 1974
