Cytotoxic Payloads for Antibody-Drug Conjugates David E Thurston, Paul J M Jackson, 2019-07-15 Antibody drug conjugates ADCs represent one of the most promising and exciting areas of anticancer drug discovery Five ADCs are now approved in the US and EU i.e. ado-trastuzumab emtansine Kadcyla brentuximab vedotin Adcetris inotuzumab ozogamicin Besponsa gemtuzumab ozogamicin Mylotarg and moxetumomab pasudotox tdfk Lumoxiti and over 70 others are in various stages of clinical development with impressive interim results being reported for many The technology is based on the concept of delivering a cytotoxic payload selectively to cancer cells by attaching it to an antibody targeted to antigens on the cell surfaces This approach has several advantages including the ability to select patients as likely responders based on the presence of antigen on the surface of their cancer cells and a wider therapeutic index given that ADC targeting enables a more efficient delivery of cytotoxic agents to cancer cells than can be achieved by conventional chemotherapy thus minimising systemic toxicity Although there are many examples of antibodies that have been developed for this purpose along with numerous linker technologies used to attach the cytotoxic agent to the antibody there is presently a relatively small number of payload molecules in clinical use The purpose of this book is to describe the variety of payloads used to date along with a discussion of their advantages and disadvantages and to provide information on novel payloads at the research stage that may be used clinically in the future

Mobile and Wireless Communications Networks Elizabeth M. Belding-Royer, Khaldoun Al Agha, Guy Pujolle, 2006-08-17 Mobile Ad hoc NETWORKS MANETs has attracted great research interest in recent years A Mobile Ad Hoc Network is a self organizing multi hop wireless network where all hosts often called nodes participate in the routing and data forwarding process The dependence on nodes to relay data packets for others makes mobile ad hoc networks extremely susceptible to various malicious and selfish behaviors This point is largely overlooked during the early stage of MANET research Many works simply assume nodes are inherently cooperative and benign However experiences from the wired world manifest that the reverse is usually true and many works have pointed out that the impact of malicious and selfish users must be carefully investigated The goal of this research is to address the cooperation problem and related security issues in wireless ad hoc networks As a rule of thumb it is more desirable to include security mechanisms in the design phase rather than continually patching the system for security breaches As pointed out in [21] there can be both selfish and malicious nodes in a mobile ad hoc network Selfish nodes are most concerned about their energy consumption and intentionally drop packets to save power The purpose of malicious nodes on the other hand is to attack the network using various intrusive techniques In general nodes in an ad hoc network can exhibit Byzantine behaviors
