Shards Of Love Exile And The Origins Of The Lyric

Cynthia Robinson

Shards Of Love Exile And The Origins Of The Lyric:

Shards of Love María Rosa Menocal, 1994 With the Spanish conquest of Islamic Granada and the expulsion of the Jews from Spain the year 1492 marks the exile from Europe of crucial strands of medieval culture It also becomes a symbolic marker for the expulsion of a diversity in language and grammar that was disturbing to the Renaissance sensibility of purity and stability In rewriting Columbus's narrative of his voyage of that year Renaissance historians rewrote history as was often their practice to purge it of an offending vulgarity The cultural fragments left behind following this exile form the core of Shards of Love as María Rosa Menocal confronts the difficulty of writing their history It is in exile that Menocal locates the founding conditions for philology as a discipline that loves origins and for the genre of love songs that philology reveres She crosses the boundaries both temporal and geographical of 1492 to recover the original medieval culture with its Mediterranean mix of European Arabic and Hebrew poetics The result is a form of literary history more lyrical than narrative and Menocal persuasively demonstrates more appropriate to the Middle Ages than to the revisionary legacy of the Renaissance In discussions ranging from Eric Clapton's adaption of Nizami's Layla and Majnun to the uncanny ties between Jim Morrison and Petrarch Shards of Love deepens our sense of how the Middle Ages is tied to our own age as it expands the history and meaning of what we call Romance philology

Eros and Sexuality in Islamic Art Francesca Leoni, Mika Natif, 2013 Dedicated to the topic of eroticism and sexuality in the visual production of the medieval and early modern Muslim world this volume offers new insights and methodological models that extend our understanding of erotic and sexual subjects in the Islamic tradition The essays shed light on the diverse socio cultural milieus of erotic images on the motivations underlying their production and on the responses generated by their circulation

Crossing Borders Sahar Amer, 2013-03-01 Given Christianity's valuation of celibacy and its persistent association of sexuality with the Fall and of women with sin Western medieval attitudes toward the erotic could not help but be vexed In contrast eroticism is explicitly celebrated in a large number of theological scientific and literary texts of the medieval Arab Islamicate tradition where sexuality was positioned at the very heart of religious piety In Crossing Borders Sahar Amer turns to the rich body of Arabic sexological writings to focus in particular on their open attitude toward erotic love between women By juxtaposing these Arabic texts with French works she reveals a medieval French literary discourse on same sex desire and sexual practices that has gone all but unnoticed The Arabic tradition on eroticism breaks through into French literary writings on gender and sexuality in often surprising ways she argues and she demonstrates how strategies of gender representation deployed in Arabic texts came to be models to imitate contest subvert and at times censor in the West Amer's analysis reveals Western literary representations of gender in the Middle Ages as cross cultural hybrid discourses as she reexamines borders cultural linguistic historical geographic not as elements of separation and division but as fluid spaces of cultural exchange adaptation and collaboration Crossing these borders she salvages key Arabic and French writings on alternative sexual practices from

The Medieval New Patricia Clare Ingham,2015-04-07 Despite the prodigious inventiveness of the Middle Ages the era is often characterized as deeply suspicious of novelty But if poets and philosophers urged caution about the new Patricia Clare Ingham contends their apprehension was less the result of a blind devotion to tradition than a response to radical expansions of possibility in diverse realms of art and science Discovery and invention provoked moral questions in the Middle Ages serving as a means to adjudicate the ethics of invention and opening thorny questions of creativity and desire The Medieval New concentrates on the preoccupation with newness and novelty in literary scientific and religious discourses of the twelfth through sixteenth centuries Examining a range of evidence from the writings of Roger Bacon and Geoffrey Chaucer to the letters of Christopher Columbus and attending to histories of children s toys the man made marvels of romance the utopian aims of alchemists and the definitional precision of the scholastics Ingham analyzes the ethical ambivalence with which medieval thinkers approached the category of the new With its broad reconsideration of what the newfangled meant in the Middle Ages The Medieval New offers an alternative to histories that continue to associate the medieval era with conservation rather than with novelty its benefits and liabilities Calling into question present day assumptions about newness Ingham s study demonstrates the continued relevance of humanistic inquiry in the so called traditional disciplines of contemporary scholarship
