Biomapping Indigenous Peoples, 2012-01-01 Where do our distant ancestors come from and which routes did they travel around the globe as hunter gatherers in prehistoric times Genomics provides a fascinating insight into these questions and unlocks a mass of information carried by strands of DNA in each cell of the human body For Indigenous peoples scientific research of any kind evokes past and not forgotten suffering racial and racist taxonomy and finally dispossession Survival of human cell lines outside the body clashes with traditional beliefs as does the notion that DNA may tell a story different from their own creation story Extracting and analysing DNA is a new science barely a few decades old In the medical field it carries the promise of genetically adapted health care However if this is to be done genetic identity has to be defined first While a narrow genetic definition might be usable by medical science it does not do justice to Indigenous peoples cultural identity and raises the question of governmental benefits where their genetic identity is not strong enough People migrate and intermix and have always done so Genomics trace the genes but not the cultures Cultural survival or revival and Indigenous group cohesion are unrelated to DNA explaining why Indigenous leaders adamantly refuse genetic testing This book deals with the issues surrounding biomapping the Indigenous seen from the viewpoints of discourse analysts historians lawyers anthropologists sociologists museum curators health care specialists and Native researchers      The International Law of War Florentino P. Cultural Anthropology Jack David Eller, 2009-06-24

Cultural Anthropology: Global forces, local lives is an accessible ethnographically rich cultural anthropology textbook which gives a coherent and refreshingly new vision of the discipline and its subject matter: human diversity. The fifteen chapters and three extended case studies present all of the necessary areas of cultural anthropology, organizing them in conceptually and thematically meaningful and original ways. A full one-third of its content is dedicated to important global and historical cultural phenomena such as colonialism, nationalism, ethnicity, and ethnic conflict, economic development, environmental issues, cultural revival, fundamentalism, and popular culture. The more conventional topics of anthropology—language, economics, kinship, politics, religion, race—are integrated into this broader discussion to reflect the changing content of contemporary courses. This well-written and well-organised text has been trialled both in the classroom and online. The author has extensive teaching experience and is especially good at presenting material clearly, matching his exposition to the pace of students' understanding. Specially designed in colour to be useful to today's students, Cultural Anthropology: Global forces, local lives supports study with chapter case studies on subjects as diverse as Doing Anthropology at Microsoft to Banning Religious Symbols in France, explains difficult key terms with marginal glosses, and links related topics with marginal cross-references. It assists revision with boxed chapter summaries, an extensive bibliography, and index. It illustrates concepts and commentary with a vivid range of photographs drawn from the most contemporary anthropological sources, provides a support website which includes study guides, powerpoint presentations, chapter supplements, multiple-choice, essay, and assignment questions, a model course mapped to the textbook, a flashcard glossary of terms, links to useful maps.

International Human Rights Alison Dundes Renteln, 2013-05

International Human Rights is a classic socio-legal study of the incompatibility and possible reconciliation of competing views of culture, relativism, and absolute fundamental human rights. It features prodigious research and insight that is much cited by academics and human rights lawyers and activists over two decades. Quality ebook edition features active Contents, linked notes, and proper presentation of text and charts.

Are human rights universal? Universalists and cultural relativists have long been debating this question. In INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS, Alison Dundes Renteln reconciles the two positions and argues that within the vast array of cultural practices and values, it is possible to create structural equivalents to rights in all societies. She poses that empirical cross-cultural research can reveal universal human rights standards, then demonstrates it through an analysis of the concept of measured retribution. INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS provides an unusual combination of abstract theory and empirical evidence. It will interest scholars and students in political science, sociology, anthropology, peace studies, cross-cultural research and philosophy as well as human rights activists      Human Rights and World Public Order Myres Smith McDougal, Harold Dwight Lasswell, Lung-chu Chen, 2019 As a classic text of the New Haven School of International Law this book explores human rights and international law in the broadest sense taking into account social sciences research while embracing all values secured or consequently fulfilled or needed to thus be achieved The re issuance of this venerable title unveils this work to a new generation of scholars students and practitioners of international law and human rights      The Science of Man in the World Crisis. Edited by R. Linton Ralph Linton, 1945      International Law in Comparative Perspective William E. Buckminster Fuller, The documents in this series originated with a proposal made by R Buckminster Fuller to the International Union of Architects I U A at their VIIth Congress in London England in July 1961 launching the World Design Science Decade He proposed then that the architectural schools around the world be encouraged by the I U A to invest the next ten years in a continuing problem of how to make the total world's resources which in 1961 serve only 40% serve 100% of humanity through competent design despite a continuing decrease of metal resources per capita In essence The World Design Science Decade series of documents suggests in great detail ways in which world architectural schools and specifically their students should initiate and assume The Design Science Decade The total series includes many of Fuller's most prescient ideas A note from the series editor John McHale Though the language of some of the texts may seem difficult at first approach it should be borne in mind that one of our major problems in thinking today 1965 is the use of language systems which still represent a fixed structurally compartmentalized world view The terms available to us for the expression of dynamic rather than static concepts are far from satisfactory Fuller s language is particularly representative of the transitional state of the western world between the older traditional noun centered culture to its present day changing verb centered culture In his search for an adequately descriptive terminology he tends to employ concepts and usages from many different fields juxtaposed in ways which may be unfamiliar to those more customarily restrained within the vocabularies of particular disciplines Description by the Buckminster Fuller Institute courtesy of The Estate of R Buckminster Fuller     Man for Himself Erich Fromm,2013-07-04 This is Volume VIII of thirty eight of collection of works on General Psychology Initially published in 1947 it offers an enquiry into the psychology of ethics and forms a continuation of the author s other work Escape from Freedom in which he attempted to analyse modern man s escape from himself and his freedom This book discusses the problem of ethics of norms and values leading to the realisation of man s self and of his potential     Progress Leo Marx,Bruce Mazlish,1996 Evaluates the foundational idea of progress from many perspectives     Three Styles in the Study of Kinship J.A. Barnes,2013-11-05 The study of kinship is a fundamental part of the study and the practice of social anthropology This volume examines the work of three distinguished anthropologists that bear on kinship and determines what theoretical models are implicit in their writings and assesses to what extent their claims have been validated The anthropologists studied are from France the UK and USA Claude Levi Strauss Meyer Fortes and G P Murdock First published in 1971
