Discrimination in an Unequal World Miguel Angel Centeno,Katherine S. Newman,2010-09 Is globalization making our world more equal or less Proponents of globalization argue that it is helping and that in a competitive world no one can afford to discriminate except on the basis of skills Opponents counter that globalization does nothing but provide a meritocratic patina on a consistently unequal distribution of opportunity Yet despite the often deafening volume of the debate there is surprisingly little empirical work available on the extent to which the process of globalization over the past quarter century has had any effect on discrimination Tackling this challenge Discrimination in an Unequal World explores the relationship between discrimination and unequal outcomes in the appropriate geographical and historical context Noting how each society tends to see its particular version of discrimination as universal and obvious the editors expand their set of cases to include a broad variety of social relations and practices However since methods differ and are often designed for particular national circumstances they set the much more ambitious and practical goal of establishing a base with which different forms of discrimination across the world can be compared Derived from a broad array of methods the book draws many important lessons on the new means by which the world creates social hierarchies the democratization of inequality and the disappearance of traditional categories

Going to University Case, Jennifer, Marshall, Delia, 2018-02-09 Around the world more young people than ever before are attending university Student numbers in South Africa have doubled since democracy and for many families higher education is a route to a better future for their children But alongside the overwhelming demand for higher education questions about its purposes have intensified Deliberations about the curriculum culture and costing of public higher education abound from student activists academics parents civil society and policy makers We know from macro research that South African graduates generally have good employment prospects But little is known at a detailed level about how young people actually make use of their university experiences to craft their life courses And even less is known about what happens to those who drop out This accessible book brings together the rich life stories of 73 young people six years after they began their university studies It traces how going to university influences not only their employment options but also nurtures the agency needed to chart their own way and to engage critically with the world around them The book offers deep insights into the ways in which public higher education is both a private and public good and it provides significant conclusions pertinent to anyone who works in and cares about universities

Women, Economic Development, and Higher Education Diane E. Eynon, 2017-06-19 This book is a multi disciplinary exploration of the intersection relationship and connection between higher education economic development and gender in post Apartheid South Africa In just twenty years South Africa has rewritten its constitution restructured its macroeconomic growth and development policies restructured its higher education system and made a commitment to provide opportunity for all its citizens specifically those who have historically been marginalized women and blacks Eynon weaves together these unique perspectives to illustrate how these multiple domains map onto women and the critical role they play in the present and future of the country Gender equality and women s empowerment and education were considered key drivers to South Africa s transformation

The Cases of Cameroon, South Africa, Eritrea and Zimbabwe Donald P. Chimanikire,2009 Student activism in Africa at least since the early 1990s has been preoccupied with popular struggles for democracy in both their respective countries and institutions of higher learning The changing socio economic and political conditions in many African countries characterized by the decline in economic growth and the introduction of multi party politics among several other factors have had different impact on students and student political organizations in African universities This book recounts the responses of students to these changes in their attempt to negotiate better living and studying conditions The four case studies contained in the book Cameroon South Africa Zimbabwe and Eritrea clearly reveal the very important aspects of the situation in which African students find themselves in many countries and underscores the need to understand the character and development of higher education on the continent. Ministries of Higher Education, Vice Chancellors, Deans of Students, Student Unions and parents will find this book very useful in terms of understanding the tensions that often arise at institutions of higher learning and why solutions seem to be elusive.
